Pomona teachers win salary battle, accept 9½% pay hike

By ERNESTINE SISK
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Pomona teachers called off their threatened strike today after settling their salary dispute with a compromise 9½ per cent pay hike, effective July 1.

In the agreement reached, the teachers may also get an additional 1¼ per cent pay increase, if the Pomona Unified School District receives an expected $350,000 in state funding from Senate Bill 90 trailer bills, now pending in Sacramento.

More than 600 teachers, gathered in Ganesha Park for a 7 a.m. general meeting of the Associated Pomona Teachers, cheered like students at a pep rally when APT leaders announced the terms of the settlement.

By a voice vote, the teachers unanimously agreed to instruct their 45-member representative council to accept the administrative offer. It represents the first raise in salaries the Pomona teachers have received in three years.

Had a compromise not been effected at a negotiating session of the Certificated Employes Council Thursday night, APT leaders said more than 80 per cent of the city's teachers were willing to walk off their jobs today.

It would have been the only teacher strike in the city's history. Since 1962, APT has operated under a "no strike" policy, but that policy was rescinded Monday night as a crisis in the salary negotiations mushroomed.

Teacher strikes are illegal in the state of California, but the California Teachers Association is attempting to push state legislation through which would allow public employes to strike.

In the meeting at the park, APT president Judd Ellson called it a "major victory" for the teachers. He then urged them to "let bygones be bygones," hurry back to class and "get back to the job of teaching."

Under negotiation was some $1.5 million the district will receive in additional funds next year.

The teachers were asking for a 12 per cent pay hike. Administrators, acting for the board of education, had offered an 8½ per cent raise.

The compromise, giving the teachers an additional 1 per cent, was reached when the district agreed to eliminate from the budget and give to the teachers a fund of $100,000 administrators were hoping to use to re-institute a partial six-period day at the city's high schools.

The agreement also took $50,000 from a fund administrators had budgeted for the purchase of additional materials and supplies next year.

A 9½ per cent pay increase means a $695 annual pay hike for a beginning teacher and a $1,390 annual pay boost for teachers at the top of the salary scale.

Beginning teacher salaries will rise from $7,314 to $8,009. Top salaries will increase from $14,628 to $16,018.

In other terms of the agreement the remainder of the $1.5 million fund would be divided as follows:

—$60,000 to maintain present level of custodial service to replace federal programs which have been phased out.

—$25,000 to purchase educational materials and supplies.

—$20,000 to meet increased substitute salary schedules.

Any new monies from the state for 1973-74 will be allocated on the following basis:

—Fifty per cent of the funds up to the equivalent of a 1.25 per cent salary increase would go to teachers, effective the first of the month following its availability.

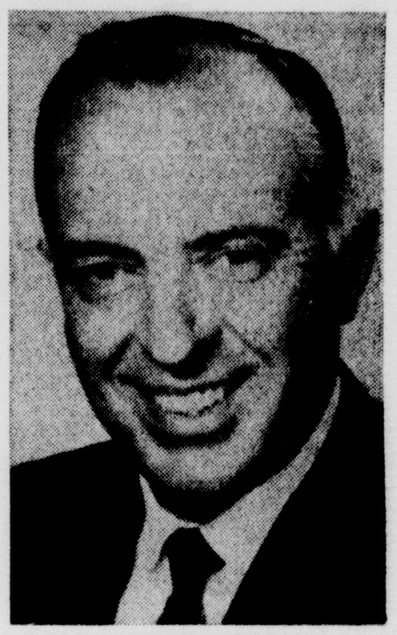

—Twenty per cent of the funds would be expended on new classroom teachers up to $100,000.

—The remainder shall be spent on educational needs as identified by the Board of Education.

Supt. Robert E. Wentz said an agreement was made on the possible trailer bill funds "so that we will not have to go back into the meet and confer process" if those funds become available.

The trailer legislation is incorporated in Assembly Bill 1164 to assist districts

BEN BURRELL

Judge Burrell appointed to traffic post

CHINO — Judge Ben Burrell of the Chino Justice Court has been appointed to a newly established position of traffic referee for the San Bernardino County Municipal Court District.

He begins his new job on July 1, with Mondays and Tuesdays spent at San Bernardino Municipal Court and Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays in the Ontario Municipal Court.

Burrell will handle all traffic arraignments, thus relieving judges to handle other court proceedings, such as trials and hearings. His salary of about $16,000 annually will be 50 per cent of what municipal court judges receive.

Presiding judges from the district's five divisions met Thursday night and selected Burrell from four applicants.

"We felt that Burrell had all the qualifications to serve as traffic referee," said Judge Kenneth Ziebarth of the Ontario Court.

"He has served as a correctional guard at the California Institution for Men, as a California Highway Patrol officer, and as Justice Court judge for the past eight years."

The Chino Justice Court is designated to become a municipal court when its population reaches 40,000. Not being an attorney, Burrell would be reassigned as court clerk.

"I believe Judge Burrell is more interested in handling court matters in a quasi-judicial position," said Ziebarth. "In the traffic field, I don't know of anyone more qualified."

The traffic referee position resulted from recent state legislation which allows them in municipal court districts which have sufficient traffic cases.

"He will work primarily in San Bernardino and Ontario, where we have the greatest traffic workload," said Ziebarth.

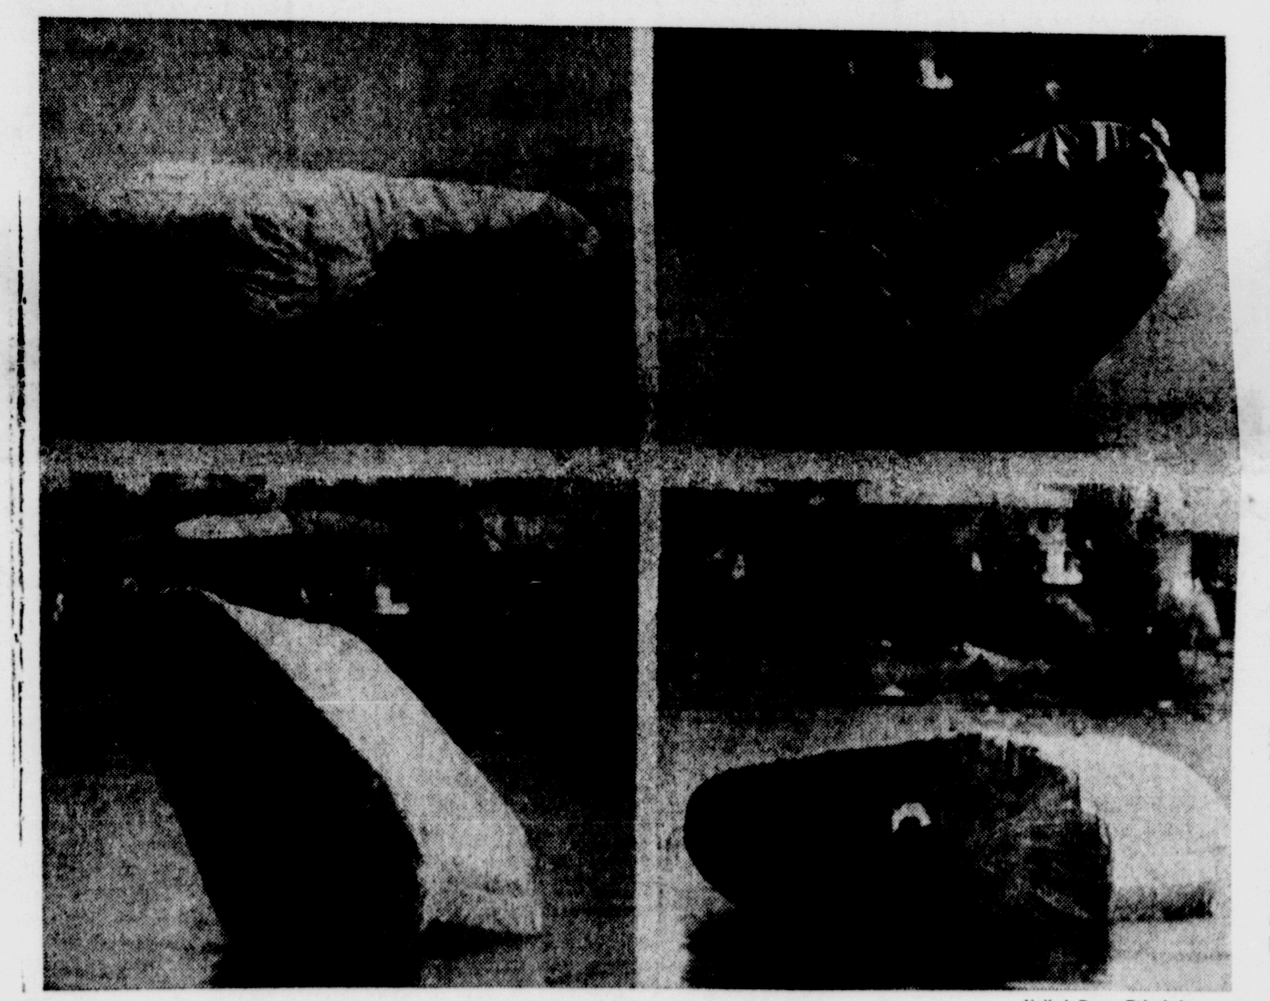

Burrell, born Dec. 16, 1919, in Rawlins, Wyo., moved to Long Beach at the age of 12. He served in the Marines during World War II. After discharge, he worked at CIM for several years before joining the highway patrol. Burrell then won election as Chino's judge in 1964 as a write-in candidate.

Members of the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors are expected this month to appoint a replacement for Burrell.

Supervisor Ruben S. Ayala of Chino said he would present a nominee after he had received Burrell's letter of resignation.

"I will rely on municipal court judges in the West End of San Bernardino County for a recommendation" he added. "The judge, if qualified, would then continue to serve as judge when a municipal court is created here."

Ayala said Burrell's appointment is one case where "Chino's loss will be the county's gain."

WINNING DESIGN

The final examination in Stanford Prof. Robert Piziali's "philosophy of design" course was: design a boat that can be navigated to the middle of the campus' Lake Lagunitas, capsize and return to shore bottom up. The crew couldn't get wet. The winning boat here made its required flip when the crew inside shifted to the stern and kept moving until the bottom was up as shown in this sequence.

Says perjury committed

McCord appeals for new trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James W. McCord appealed today for a new trial or reversal of his Watergate conviction on grounds that perjury was committed during January's trial.

McCord, in a motion filed in U.S. District Court, asked Chief Judge John J. Sirica to act in the face of information which came to light after the trial.

McCord also cited existence of President Nixon's special investigating unit —the so-called plumbers—and said evidence about the unit's operations should have been introduced at the trial.

McCord also argued that "on his own knowledge" he believes perjury was committed at the trial by Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy manager of the President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Herbert L. Porter, former scheduling director at the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, testified Thursday before the Senate's Watergate committee that he had perjured himself both before the federal grand jury and at the trial and that Magruder had told him Magruder had lied 12 times in connection with the case.

Magruder's testimony, McCord contended, "was central to the whole theory of prosecution" and it appears that such tainted testimony was "knowingly and intentionally used by the prosecution" at the trial.

McCord pleaded innocent to the charges against him arising out of the June 17 break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate complex.

He was convicted with G. Gordon Liddy, former chief counsel to the Nixon re-election finance committee. Five other defendants pleaded guilty at the outset of the trial.

McCord acted one day after it was disclosed that former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman had testified that Nixon waited nine months before asking his top aides for a full report on the Watergate incident.

$10 billion deal

U.S. may get natural gas from Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union and two American companies said today they intend to develop a $10 billion project to bring Siberian natural gas into American kitchens by 1979.

The signing of an agreement of intent between the Foreign Trade Ministry and the El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Occidental Petroleum Corp., was announced at a news conference by Occidental Chairman Armand Hammer.

It was noteworthy that the agreement was announced less than two weeks before Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev goes to Washington for talks with President Nixon.

In addition to improving relations with the west, Brezhnev also hopes to complete a number of spectacular trade deals, according to diplomatic sources in London.

Implementation of the project will require the approval of both governments, the 75-year-old Hammer said.

If it materializes, Hammer said, the project will require "about six years of work before Russian natural gas would be cooking American steaks."

Idle tractors threaten harvesting

Fuel crisis spreading

By United Press International

Two more oil companies issued restrictions on gasoline sales Thursday, and wheat farmers warned they are running out of fuel for their tractors and will not be able to harvest many crops this year.

People in Georgia were urged to walk up stairs instead of using elevators to save fuel, and in Dayton, Ohio, city officials were issued bicycles to ride to work and back home on.

But in New York City, Mayor John Lindsay announced a study to use garbage as fuel.

"The possibility of burning solid waste to produce energy offers a major solution to two of the city's most basic and pressing problems — garbage disposal and power supply," Lindsay said.

He asked for $200,000 to spend on a study to burn some of the 30,000 tons of garbage the city collects per day. An Environmental Protection Agency study said 5,000 to 6,000 tons of garbage burned daily could produce 10 to 20 per cent of the fuel needs for the nation's largest city.

But farmers who need fuel for harvesting did not have any solutions in mind and warned the result could be higher food prices.

In Burkburnett, Tex., one major fuel supplier closed down when its tanks ran dry. "We don't have any (fuel) for tomorrow. This is it. Nobody cares. Nobody will believe me," said Mrs. Harlan Mullins, owner of the fuel company.

Wanda Young of the Bunge Corp., the area's biggest grain elevator, said, "If we have a fuel shortage this grain is left in the fields—period. Consequently it affects everybody, everybody who buys a loaf of bread, a box of cereal or hamburger meat.

"Wait 'til it hits the supermarket."

Atlantic Richfield Co. announced Thursday it would limit its gasoline sales east of the Rockies to 104 per cent of last year's comparable monthly volume and to 96 per cent in the west.

A Mobil Oil regional manager in Illinois said he was notified that Mobil will limit stations during the summer months to the amount they received last year. Diesel fuel will be cut to a 94 per cent basis.

In Dayton, City Manager James E. Kunde ordered city officials to either walk or ride a bike when they are on business within a half mile of their offices.

Valley faces heat-smog onslaught; Reagan calls for cut in use of cars

Heavy smog coupled with temperatures in the high 90s is the weather outlook for Pomona Valley this weekend.

Heavy smog conditions throughout Southern California has prompted Gov. Ronald Reagan to ask citizens to restrict the use of motor vehicles from all but the most "pressing and necessary demands."

"I have directed state agencies to minimize to the greatest extent possible the use of state cars," the governor said.

The governor's request to limit driving is unprecedented in the state.

His statement said that the federal Environmental Protection Agency and state and local air pollution control districts are monitoring smog conditions and are "taking all available actions to reduce the danger."

The community of Upland reported an ozone level of .56 parts per million Thursday. It was the highest peak reading in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties. Residents there will get some relief today from the smog which is forecast at .40 ppm in Upland and .35 ppm in Chino. Temperatures, however, will be in the high 90s.

The East San Gabriel Valley reported a peak of .34 ppm Thursday afternoon. Pomona had a reading of .23 ppm Thursday. Moderate smog and temperatures of 97 degrees are forecast today.

A first stage alert was called in Upland Thursday when the zone count reached .56 ppm. This alert cautions residents that the smog is reaching a dangerous level. A level of .35 ppm cautions citizens and school districts that physical activity should be curtailed.

Both alert systems are unified in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties.

The weatherman sees no relief in sight from the heat and he said it will be hotter by Monday and Tuesday.

CIW inmate on furlough

Woman who strangled two children flees hospital

ONTARIO — A California Institution for Women inmate, convicted of strangling two children while babysitting for them last year, walked away from Ontario Community Hospital Thursday afternoon where she was on work furlough.

Sought this morning for escape is Pamela Watkins, 20, convicted in Santa Clara County Superior Court last June of voluntary manslaughter, second degree murder and possession of dangerous drugs in connection with the deaths of her two charges, aged 5 and 6. She was serving a five-year to life term at CIW.

CIW officials said Miss Watkins walked away from the hospital at 550 N. Monterey Ave. following a vocational training class, but was not discovered missing until late Thursday afternoon.

Miss Watkins is described as a Caucasian, 5 feet 8, 153 pounds with brown hair. She was last seen wearing a white nurse's uniform, white stockings and shoes, and carrying a beige handbag.

FIRST STEP IN FRANCO RETIREMENT?

Generalissimo Francisco Franco, left, greets Spain's vice president, Luis Carrero Blanco, who will take over premiership of the country. Franco still will retain power as chief of state.

Ex-con slain, family shot in plush home

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) — Major B. Coxson, a flamboyant ex-convict of affluent but mysterious means, friend of boxer Muhammed Ali and unsuccessful candidate for mayor of Camden, was found shot to death today inside his $200,000 home here, authorities said

Three other members of the 43-year-old Coxson's family were also bound, gagged, and shot through the head, but survived.

A search was launched for four black males, described as in their 30s, who were seen driving from the plush home in a black Cadillac.

Those admitted to Cherry Hill Medical Center were Coxson's son, Toro, 14, and wife, Lois, and daughter, Lita, in her early teens. Lita was listed in critical condition.

Dr. David Silverman, chairman of the hospital's surgery department, said the wife and Toro may have suffered permanent damage to their sight.

According to Thomas J. O'Rourke, director of public safety in Cherry Hill, the four men drove up to Coxson's home about 4 a.m., sounded the horn and were admitted by Coxson. After some conversation, O'Rourke said, the men ordered the four victims and Coxson's other son, Lex, 13, bound and gagged.

Coxson was found shot in the main bedroom along with his wife. Police said the woman tried to crawl to a bathroom where a telephone was located to notify authorities.

Lita was shot in her bedroom and Toro in a downstairs sitting room. Police said Lex was bound but escaped through a glass window on the first floor and ran to neighbors who notified police.

Police said parts of the home were ransacked and O'Rourke indicated robbery was a possible motive. It was not determined if anything had been stolen.

Toro told authorities the suspects ranged in age from 31 to 38, O'Rourke said, adding two were armed with "chrome-plated revolvers."

Coxson was found clad in a dressing gown, his hands and feet tied together behind him with neckties and his mouth gagged. His head was resting on the bed and he had been in a kneeling position when shot.

One hospital spokesman said the assailants "knew where to shoot."

Coxson had no visible means of support financially. He rented the home here and another house in Camden last year so he could run for mayor in that city. He painted the second home white and dubbed it the "Camden White House." He had wanted to be the first black mayor of the city.

Coxson served more than a year in federal prison for conspiracy to transport stolen motor vehicles across state lines and had several other arrests on his record.

Last month he testified before a grand jury in Philadelphia.

Although Coxson owned the home in Cherry Hill, he lost his Lincoln Continental Mark IV last May and his Cadillac limosine a short time later to the government, which said he owed $135,000 in income taxes for 1966 and 1968.

Although he had declined to discuss personal finances, Coxson had admitted being involved in a succession of business ventures since the age of 13.

Cherry Hill is also the home of Ali, whom Coxson called "my closest friend," and who once put his $36,000 silver Rolls Royce at Coxson's disposal.

Seek 90-day freeze for 'out-of-hand' economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate will be asked next week to adopt a 90-day, across-the-board wage-price freeze unless the administration takes immediate action to curb inflation.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Thursday introduced an amendment to a pending federal financing bank bill that would impose the mandatory freeze on wages, prices, rents, interest rates an dividends.

The measure would also direct President Nixon to use the three-month period to "develop and implement a long-range, fair, workable plan to control inflation and protect the purchasing power of the dollar."

The amendment was introduced after the government reported that the wholesale price index rose 2.1 per cent in May, led by a huge increase in far prices. The Bureau of Labor Statistics said farm prices increased a record 39 per cent over the past year.

"The record is all too clear that Congress was right—and the administration dead wrong —about controlling inflation three years ago when economic controls were first imposed," Jackson said. "Once again we must take the initiative to protect our economy and our pocketbooks."

Sen. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield agreed with Jackson. "Something's got to be done," he said. "The economy is getting out of hand."

Hands over premiership, but still top dog

Franco steps down—but not very far

MADRID (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco has decided to hand over the premiership to Vice President Luis Carrero Blanco but retain his other jobs as chief of state and supreme commander of the armed forces, the Information Ministry announced today.

The decree on the naming of Carrero Blanco as prime minister will be published in Saturday's official state bulletin, the ministry said.

"Admiral Carrero Blanco will be sworn in Saturday morning," a spokesman for the ministry said.

Sources close to the government said the change meant that Franco, 80, has taken the first step toward eventual retirement but that, as chief of state, he will continue to be Spain's leader.

Sources close to the government said Carrero Blanco's appointment will be followed shortly by a cabinet reshuffle.

They also said Carrero's appointment did not affect the position of Prince Juan Carlos of Borbon, the 35-year-old grandson of Spain's last king who was picked four years ago by Franco to succeed him as chief of state and future king.

Carrero, 70, was appointed vice president in 1967. For the past years, he has handled most routine matters of running the government while Franco has been concentrating on making the basic decisions.

The sources said if Franco did decide to ease the burden of his offices he could still be expected to stay firmly in command of Spain. He is in apparent good health, recently returned from a fishing vacation and went to the bullfights Thursday.

Franco himself said in recent speeches that he intended to "remain at the helm of state as long as God gives me health and clear judgement".

Before the official announcement there had been wild rumors that the generalissimo was stepping down from the leadership of Spain after more than three decades.

The Foreign Ministry and a spokesman for El Pardo Palace both denied the rumors.

Turning over one of his four duties to Carrero Blanco left Franco with the jobs of chief of state, supreme comander of the armed forces and chief of the "National Movement," Spain's only party.

Reports that a change in the government was "imminent" were published in the Spanish press following an unscheduled meeting of the Council of the Realm on Wednesday. The 17-member body is Spain's highest advisory organ to the chief of state.

Police killer death penalty ruled invalid

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state's highest court has ruled that the state law permitting the death sentence for the murder of a police officer violates the U.S. constitution because it may be discriminatory.

However, the decision and previous U. S. Supreme Court rulings apparently leave open the possibility that the state legislature could enact a law mandating capital punishment in certain cases.

The Court of Appeals decision, handed down Thursday, states that because the New York statute gives the jury discretion to prescribe the death penalty it violates the Eighth Amendment which forbids cruel and unusual punishment.

The unanimous decision was reached on an appeal by Martin J. Fitzpatrick, who was convicted of the 1969 slaying of two police officers in the Oneida County community of Sherrill.

An opinion written by Chief Judge Stanley H. Fuld said that five of the seven U.S. Supreme Court justices in Furman vs Georgia felt that the death penalty was unconstitutional when its imposition was left to the "uncontrolled discretion of judges or juries."

"Since this state's statute makes the death penalty discretionary and not mandatory, it is unconstitutional under the Furman case," Fuld wrote.

Fuld said, however, that a number of the Supreme Court justices pointed out that they did not reach a decision on the constitutionality of a mandatory death penalty.

Fitzpatrick, 37, was convicted in January, 1971, of murdering Sherrill Police Chief Thomas P. Reilly, 59, and Patrolman Robert A. Mumford, 60, following a gas station holdup in the Madison County community of Canastota Sept. 9, 1969.

Senate OKs $9 million state budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has passed a $9.09 billion proposed state budget, $203 million less than Gov. Ronald Reagan's "cut, squeeze and trim" spending proposal.

"Lord, I wonder what it would be like if we had a liberal governor," said Sen. H.L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, the only lawmaker to directly oppose the budget during floor debate Thursday.

The proposed budget—the largest of any state in the nation—is $1.4 billion higher than the current $7.7 billion budget.

Reagan asked for $9.3 billion for the coming fiscal year. The Assembly has already passed a $9.4 proposed budget.

The spending proposal includes large salary raises for state employes, the biggest single school aid increase in history and funds to build a new Capitol and governor's mansion.

The 30-6 vote in favor of the bill (AB110) set the stage for final drafting of the state's proposed budget for the coming fiscal year by a special, closed-door conference committee.

The Assembly Monday is expected to refuse to pass the Senate version of the budget, clearing the way for final negotiations by a two-house conference committee.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, floor sponsor of the budget bill, said the major cuts in the Senate's version were $64 million from Medi-Cal and nearly $29 million from welfare.

He stated the reduction in Medi-Cal was prompted by an expected decrease in recipients. The cut in welfare funds was approved because of the lack of information from the federal government about the effect of new regulations.

Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr. of Redding, Republican floor leader, complained about deletion of a $215 million appropriation in federal revenue-sharing funds for education purposes.

Democrats have contended Republicans were violating federal rules by using the money indirectly for a tax rebate.

Girl killed by auto on last school day

She was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital.

like Pomona which are facing declining enrollments and thereby declining average daily attendance money from the state.

The bill would cut in half the loss those districts would have to sustain in state income. For example, Pomona, anticipating a decline of 800 students next year, would los' ADA money for only 400 students.

Wentz said that portion of the agreement was "hypothetical," since no one knows if A.B. 1164 will pass.

APT leaders say, however, they have been informed by California Teachers Association representatives that the bill is expected to pass in August.

Wentz said the agreement will put Pomona teachers "very close to the top" in salary comparisons with neighboring districts.

Representing the APT at the final negotiating conference was Dick Odgens, one of many CTA staffers who thronged into Pomona this week to help the local teachers with their salary fight and possible strike.

Those CTA officials were lauded time and again by APT leaders at the teacher meeting this morning.

Ellson also gave credit to Pomona teachers for standing behind APT leaders.

"You are the ones who did the job," he told the teachers. "You attended that board meeting, carried those signs, made them (the board) do some foolish things, and scared the hell out of them."

Del Pfeifer, executive director of the APT, said the association picked up 35 new members in two days.

"With this agreement in our pocket," Pfeifer said, "the board now knows we (the APT) are adults in the community of collective bargaining."

Fog in L.A. ups traffic at OIA

ONTARIO — Traffic has perked up the past three nights at Ontario International Airport.

Because of heavy fog, numerous flights bound for Los Angeles International Airport have been re-routed here.

Forty planes carrying several thousand passengers landed here Thursday night and early today. Many persons made the last leg of their journey in buses.

Officials also reported 13 planes with 350 passengers arrived Thursday morning from midnight to 4 a.m.

Sixteen planes which arrived Wednesday between 1:20 and 7:30 a.m. carried less than 100 passengers. Most were hauling cargo, they explained.

Officials are getting ready for another alternate operation tonight. "We have the same weather conditions: hot interior, low inversion layer and cool on the voast," one official noted.

Jury hears firms use mobster muscle men

Sex-drugs payoff in record business

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Four men testified Thursday before a federal grand jury that some record companies provided women and drugs to disc jockies to play their records, and used mobsters to deal with recording stars.

"We believe that almost every major record company in the country is involved," a federal official has said.

Sources said the four men who appeared before the grand jury Thursday were questioned about record companies that reportedly channeled funds into phony firms, which in turn supplied fraudulent invoices so payments used in the "play for pay" scheme would look legitimate.

The sources said that the grand jury is looking into information found by the Organized Crime Strike Force. That information includes charges that disc jockeys have been supplied with narcotics, money and women to play new records so as to push them to the top of the charts.

In addition, the grand jury reportedly is looking into charges that some record companies used mobsters as "muscle" to keep recording stars in line.

The inquiry grew out of wiretap information received by federal agents investigating Pasquale (Patsy) Falconio, whom federal officials describe as being connected with associates of the old Vito Genovese crime family.

Clive Davis, fired last week from his post as head of Columbia Broadcasting System records, was questioned by federal investigators while the grand jury was at lunch.

CBS fired David Wynshaw, director of artist relations, April 10. Later that month Anthony Rubino, director of marketing for its records division, was dismissed.

A civil suit said the three misused thousands of dollars in Columbia funds. Most of the money was said to have gone to redecorate Davis' New York apartment.

Wynshaw reportedly told investigators that promotion representatives had paid as much as $250,000 to various radio stations with music programs aimed at black audiences to encourage them to play records produced by Columbia.

Prescription needed to eat some liver?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Linus Pauling, the Nobel Prizewinning chemist, described as "asinine" the Food and Drug Administration's plan to require prescriptions for high potency vitamin supplements.

Pauling said in a letter to Rep. Harold V. Froelich, R-Wis., Thursday that the FDA plan would be like requiring a doctor's prescription for each serving of half an ounce of liver. He said that much liver would contain more vitamins than would be permitted without a prescription under the FDA plan.

The FDA plans to require prescriptions for high potency vitamin C and E pills, although the FDA itself admits that there is no evidence that they can harm users.

Swimmer warned prior to tragedy

SAN DIMAS —A drowning victim found Wednesday at Puddingstone Reservoir remained unidentified today, sheriff's deputies said.

The body of a man, about 22, was taken from the water near old Gate No. 4 by county lifeguard Frank C. Brown, Pomona, after several dives.

Deputies said the victim and a male companion had been ordered from the area a few minutes earlier by Ted Abspoel, a dam keeper assigned there by the Los Angeles County Flood Control Department. Abspoel said he saw the pair arrive in a yellow van, park and dive in. He said he told them they would have to leave and left to tell Brown that the pair was there.

When Abspoel returned with the lifeguard, they were told by persons fishing nearby that one of the men had disappeared in the water. Brown dove unsuccessfully for several minutes but couldn't locate the victim. He went for scuba gear, returned with several other lifeguards and eventually located the body.

Meanwhile the man's companion, who sat in the van while attempts to locate the victim were in progress, drove away before he could be questioned.

The body was taken to Pollock Mortuary, Pomona, while attempts to identify it continued.

Bar owner, dancer held in club raid

POMONA — Police enforcing Pomona's ordinances prohibiting nude dancing arrested a dancer and bar owner late Thursday afternoon as the local crackdown on such entertainment continued.

The arrests were at the Wildcat, 1906 W. Holt Ave., where owner Ysidro Johnny Garcia, 52, and dancer Diane Elaine Brawley, 28, were taken into custody. Garcia, 4656 Huntington Drive, Montclair, was charged with allowing topless entertainment and Mrs. Brawley, a 4-foot-11, 99-pound divorcee from Anaheim, was charged with performing while wearing only a white bikini and blue and white pasties.

Police said that when they entered the place shortly after 4 p.m. Mrs. Brawley was dancing atop a raised platform to music from a jukebox and before an audience of 13 men.

The police crackdown, in which there have been about 20 arrests, began after a Supreme Court decision which held that local governments have the right to regulate such entertainment.

Figure in CIM stabbing case stabbed by two other inmates

SAN BERNARDINO — One of three California Institution for Men inmates awaiting trial on connection with the stabbing of two brothers Dec. 15 in CIM's Reception-Guidance Center was attacked and stabbed by two other inmates at San Bernardino County Jail early this morning.

Robert Augustine Elias, 27, was listed in serious condition this morning at Loma Linda Hospital with stab wounds in the back and the chest suffered in the altercation.

Elias is awaiting trial in West Valley Superior Court on charges of assault with a deadly weapon on another inmate with Frank Joseph Ruiz, 30, and Joseph Henry Ortiz, 25. The three are accused of stabbing Ernest and Santos Aranda during a fight in the guidance center's hallway leading to the exercise yard. Both the Arandas survived the knife attack.

Being questioned in the stabbing of Elias this morning about 4:30 a.m. were Joe Gonzales, 32 and Isaac Trunnell, 23, both inmates at CIM, also facing charges from another incident.

Gonzales and Trunnell were scheduled for appearances in West Valley Superior Court this morning on charges of possession of a weapon inside a prison by an inmate and assault with a deadly weapon on another prisoner by a life inmate. Elias, Ortiz and Ruiz were also scheduled for appearances in court this morning.

Sgt. Robert Edmunson of the San Bernardino County Sheriff's homicide division said that Elias was placed in the marshalling area about 4:30 a.m. with about 25 to 30 other prisoners all scheduled for court appearances, when an altercation occurred.

During the altercation Elias was stabbed between 10 and 15 times in the chest and back. When order was restored, two kitchen knives were discovered, one on the floor of the cell and the other in a toilet bowl, said Edmunson.

Edmunson said that the motive for the stabbing is not known.

Sheriff's deputies hinted that the motive may have been revenge. The series of stabbings and assaults at CIM in the last year have been blamed on a feud between two rival prison groups, the New Family or La Familia and the Mexican Mafia, who are allegedly engaged in a power struggle amongst Mexican-American prisoners, according to prison officials.

Edmunson said Elias is expected to live.

Suspect in fatal shooting faces hearing

ONTARIO — Gerald James Youngberg, 30, accused of killing two veteran law enforcement officers and a service station attendant in Cajon Pass, will appear in West Valley Superior Court before Judge Richard Garner this afternoon for pretrial hearings.

Youngberg, slated for trial Monday on three counts of murder, is accused of killing San Bernardino County Sheriff's Lt. Alfred Stewart, 39; California Highway Patrolman Larry I. Wetterling, 30; and service station attendant Leo Jenkins in a 20-minute shooting spree the morning of March. 9.

Youngberg was shot by James Mayfield, a San Bernardino County supervisor and a former sheriff's deputy, during a pursuit by highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputy. Youngberg recovered from his wound and, following a preliminary hearing, was bound over to Superior Court to stand trial.

Because of newspaper accounts in San Bernardino, Youngberg was granted a change of venue and the trial was moved from the San Bernardino Courts to the West Valley Court.

Youngberg's attorney for the trial will be Rufus Johnson of San Bernardino with West Valley Deputy Dist. Atty. Kenneth Kloepfer leading the prosecution.

Four given life in burglary ring murder

LOS ANGELES — Four members of an alleged burglary ring have been sentenced to state prison for life for the murder June 19 of their leader.

The body of the victim, Gerald L. Griffin, 45, Covina, was found June 19 dumped in San Gabriel Canyon north of Azusa. He had been shot in the head and thrown 50 feet down an embankment off Highway 39, a half-mile north of the Rincon Ranger station.

The four men were convicted last month in a lengthy Los Angeles Superior Court trial of conspiracy to commit murder and first-degree murder. They were sentenced by Judge Sherman Smith who ordered that they serve the terms concurrently.

The four are Gottfried Roderick Von Kronnenberger, 31, William D. Lohrnan, 24, Edward Michael Priley, 30, and Joseph Marco Pavella Jr., 31.

Griffin and the other four arrived in the San Gabriel Valley early last summer from Minneapolis, Minn., and planned to set up a burglary ring, authorities said. But they had a falling out and Griffin, reportedly the leader, was killed.

By the time sheriff's investigators linked the four to Griffin's death, they had fled to Minneapolis. They were arrested and held there and eventually extradited to California for prosecution.

The case against the men was prosecuted by Deputy Dist. Attys. Gerard Poirier and Robert Kuhnert of the Pomona office of the district attorney. The trial, which lasted more than 15 weeks, was transferred into Los Angeles from Pomona because of the illness of the original trial judge, August J. Goebel.

The loot included five English saddles, 12 western saddles, 25 bridles and 30 saddle blankets. The items were stolen by someone who pried his way into tack rooms on the ranch, where horses are boarded.

Wallace man denies $10,000 Nixon funds, Nazi aid

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The ringleader of an effort to kill off the American Independent Party in California has denied he received $10,000 in Nixon campaign funds and rejected a charge he was aided by American Nazis.

Robert J. Walters, a Los Angeles advertising man and state coordinator for Gov. George Wallace's 1968 presidential campaign, admitted Thursday he headed a drive in late 1971 and early 1972 urging AIP members to register with other political parties.

But he flatly denied the effort was supported by the Committee to Reelect the President.

Walters, 32, was identified Wednesday in the Senate Watergate probe as the recipient of $10,000 in campaign funds to "purge" the AIP from the ballot in California so the conservative vote would not be split.

Hugh W. Sloan Jr., former Nixon campaign treasurer, testified in Washington that he gave $10,000 in cash to Lyn Nofziger, former director of the California committee to Reelect the President, for use in California.

Nofziger, former information aide in the White House, said in Sacramento that the money went to Walters through a middleman Nofziger handpicked.

The money was to have been used in an attempt to convince enough people to change their registration so the AIP would be knocked off the state ballot, freeing those votes for Nixon.

Under California law names of registered voters are stricken by registrars if they fail to vote in general elections every two years. Such persons must reregister before they can vote in the next election.

State law would have forced AIP off the California ballot if it registered less than one-fifteenth of one per cent of the total 9.1 million registered voters in the June, 1972 primary. But the party remained on the ballot by registering 45,314 voters.

Walters, asked if he received the $10,000, replied: "Hell no. I wish I would of, I would have had a successful drive."

Walters also has been identified in a report in the San Gabriel Tribune as the man who tried to hire members of the National Socialist White People's Party, formerly the American Nazi Party, to aid in the reregistration effort.

Told of the report, Walters said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles: "I find that a little bit hard to believe. Although it could have been an occasional happening ... out of 200 workers we might have had a couple that were Nazis."

Walters, who was fined $500 earlier this year for soliciting false signatures for a 1972 farm labor initiative, said of his workers, "As long as they kept their noses clean I didn't bother them."

The newspaper said Walters approached a leader of the group in 1970 and offered him $5,000 to use his "storm troopers" as registrars. The leader, Joseph Tommassi, 22, said he agreed but received only $1,200 because the drive failed.

The Tribune published photographs of three checks made out to Tommassi and signed by a "Robert Walters."

In a Sacramento interview, Nofziger said he was contacted in the fall of 1971 by Jeb Magruder, Nixon's campaign deputy, to set up a go between to give the money to Walters.

"He (Magruder) explained that the program was one that involved purging the AIP voter rolls so that the AIP would not have enough members to be a legal party in California," Nofziger said.

He said Magruder told him to set up a friend to give the money to Walters and he did. He refused to name the friend.

"There was nothing illegal, immoral or unethical" about the "purge" effort, said Nofziger. "It was one of those things that just wasn't very bright."

Senate OKs Reagan budget surplus bill–the Assembly?

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has barely passed and sent to a bleak fate in the Assembly Gov. Ronald Reagan's bill to consume a $829 million budget surplus by cutting income taxes 20 per cent and postponing a sales tax increase.

The bill, a similar version of which has been stymied in the Democratic-controlled Assembly, provides for a one-time 20 per cent reduction in income taxes next April 15 and would delay from July 1 to Jan. 1 the scheduled one cent statewide sales tax boost.

The bill originally needed 27 votes for Senate passage but was hastily amended by the author, Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, to lower the vote requirement to 21.

After a long dinner hour roll call Thursday evening, the bill (SB238) finally was approved 21-10 after two Republicans and a Democrat switched their votes from "no" to "aye." Democrats cast all the dissents.

The switch voters were Sens. Peter Behr, R-Tiburon, W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, and Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park.

Originally, the bill contained an "urgency" clause that would have put the measure into effect immediately upon signature by Reagan. That provision required 27 favorable votes.

But Lagomarsino said that feature was amended out and actually was unneeded in the first place because tax measures take effect immediately anyway. This made the bill eligible for passage with only 21 votes.

Also amended out was a provision —widely heralded by Reagan —which would have allowed low income married couple with an adjusted gross income of $8,000 a year or $4,000 for single persons to pay no state income taxes at all.

Democrats contended the same provision also would repeal a recently enacted law requiring the wealthy to pay a minimum income tax. Lagomarsino said Republicans disputed this but wanted to avoid "controversy" so the low income feature was removed.

Assembly Democrats are sponsoring a rival surplus bill which was amended recently to delay the sales tax hike until Jan. 1, the same as Reagan's, and would spend $313 million to finance building construction with cash instead of bond requiring costly interest payments.

The Democratic proposal calls for an income tax cut only if there are sufficient funds remaining after the bulk of the surplus has been spent.

Both measures also would set aside $77 million for reconstruction of the state Capitol to make it earthquake safe or to build a new one and for purchase of beach and park lands.

Lagomarsino argued during a brief floor debate that Reagan's plan was "fair" to both income and sales taxpayers because each would receive about same amount of rebated surplus.

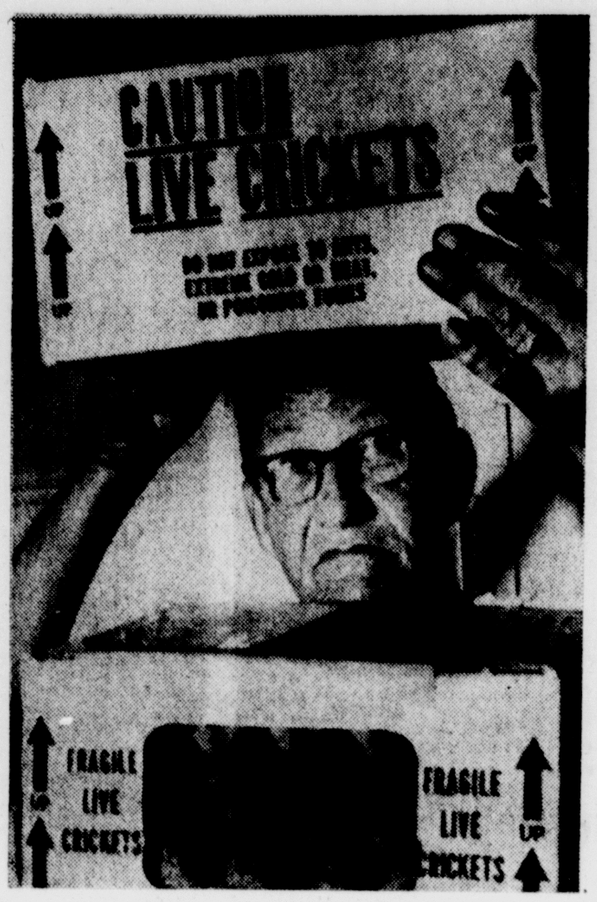

"I think this is what the people want," he said.

But Sen. James Q. Wedworth, D-Hawthorne, said the rebate should be returned to income taxpayers in the form of a check instead of a tax credit.

"If we're going to be fair and square with the people, let's send them a check," he said. "A little credit doesn't mean anything. This is an insult to the people."

JIMINY, LOOK AT ALL THOSE CRICKETS — Mr. and Mrs. Roy Payne operate one of the more unique business enterpises in Ft. Worth, Tex. — a cricket farm, complete with a barn and a flock of setting crickets. Payne started out with a box full of crickets in a back room. Now he sells about a million crickets annually to zoos, universities and fishermen through a mail order business.

Psychological probe due in Getty death

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A "psychological autopsy" like the one performed on Marilyn Monroe is trying to determine whether the mysterious death from drugs and alcohol of George F. Getty II, son of one of the world's richest men, was suicide or an accident.

Getty, 48, a wealthy oil executive in his own right, died Wednesday in a hospital where he was registered under a false name. The cause was originally reported to be a cerebral hemorrhage.

The body of "George S. Davis" was later revealed to be that of Getty, son of billionaire J. Paul Getty. Police entered the case when knife wounds were found in Getty's chest and left leg. There were bruises on his left leg and arm.

The senior Getty, 80, who has often been referred to as the richest businessman in the world, was at his estate in England, reportedly deeply shocked by the death.

Dr. Thomas Noguchi, county coroner-medical examiner, took personal charge of the autopsy and declared Thursday that Getty died of "an overdose of a combination of alcohol and barbiturates, whether accidental or otherwise."

Getty had a blood alcohol content of .06 per cent and had apparently taken "10 to 15 capsules" of phenobarbitol type sleeping pills, Noguchi said. Alcohol and the sedatives interreact to fatally depress the central nervous system.

The case "has been referred to our behavioral scientists for further evaluation," Noguchi said, referring to a panel of psychologists who will attempt to reconstruct Getty's mood at the time of death to determine whether he was suicidal.

Postal chief sees rate hike, but no strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen said that current negotiations for a new contract with postal workers probably will lead to increases in postal rates, but he predicted a strike would be avoided.

"In my judgment, I don't believe we will have a work stoppage except for perhaps some wildcat, irresponsible action on the part of some individuals," Klassen said.

But he said "very substantial" union demands were likely to bring about postal rate increases.

"They are the usual type, and I am sure that this will cost us substantial dollars, and if it does, the future obviously will bring about further rate increases," Klassen said.

See-saw, gold costs more, dollar's down

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar lost ground in early trading today on most of the world's major money markets and the price of gold edged up slightly on the big London market.

Bankers credited the dollar's latest setback to reports that President Nixon has no immediate plans for economic measures to curb American inflation.

In Paris, the financial dollar —used by tourists and speculators—fell 1.5 per cent, erasing Thursday's gains on that market. It opened at 4.27 francs, equaling Wednesday's close, but well down from Thursday's 4.3350 close.

Gold in London, the world's most important bullion market jumped $1.25 from Thursday's close to open today at $120 an ounce. The metal was unable to hold on to the gain, however, and by mid-morning slipped to $118.50, down 25 cents from Thursday's close but still up from the $117.50 touched trading earlier that day.

The mid-morning price was still almost three times the "official" Washington price of $42.22 per ounce.

In Hong Kong, gold closed nigher at $105.80 an ounce compared to Thursday's $104.60 closing and the dollar plunged from Thursday's 6.065 Hong Kong dollar close to end the day today at 5.055.

In Frankfurt, the U.S. currency started changing hands at 2.6245 marks, down .58 per cent from Thursday's close at 2.6400 marks. Dealers predicted it would go even lower.

"The real value of the dollar is around 2.50 marks. That is where I believe the dollar is headed," one dealer said. This compares to an exchange rate of four marks in the dollar's heyday.

The dollar held steady on the London exchange, selling at Thursday's close of $2.5730 per pound. But it lost .54 per cent of its value against the Dutch guilder and fell from 3.0825 Swiss francs to 3.07 francs in Zurich.

Americans living on dollar salaries in Europe were moaning. The slide in the dollar by up to 32 per cent combined with inflation has jumped their cost of living by 42 per cent or more within the past 18 months.

Kenneth Kvistad, the 31-yearold European group manager of Union Carbide Corp. in Geneva, said some Americans are changing jobs to escape the crunch.

"More and more Americans here are going over to Swiss companies so as to earn a stable local currency," he said "This way at least one knows that their purchasing power remains the same."

A $3 fee will be charged for each boy to cover the cost of referees and trophies.

Further details on the league may be obtained by phoning Ted Robinson at 624-4531, extension 271.

Environment law may be softened

FATAL WRECKAGE — Ropes attached to the tail of this small plane by divers off a Santa Monica beach Thursday were used to haul the debris out of the water. A student pilot was killed when the small craft plunged into the sea and sank.

Backers say bill repairs a 'mistake'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Despite charges it will destroy the law, a Senate committee voted Thursday to soften language in California's Environmental Quality Act, allowing public agencies to consider other than ecological factors when contemplating new developments.

Supporters of the measure, including the state Chamber of Commerce and the state Resources Agency, insisted the language change only brought one section of the act into conformity with other parts.

They said the change would have no affect on the way the law works, but simply clears up a legislative "mistake."

However, Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, the only dissenting vote in a 9-1 Government Organization Committee endorsement of the change, said the softening was too broad.

"It will destroy the law," he declared, explaining he felt the change did not insure that public agencies give the environment enough consideration.

Sponsored by Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, the measure (SB1051) changes one section of the law to read: "It is the policy of the state to ... ensure that the long-term protection of the environment shall be a principal guiding criterion in public decisions."

Currently, the act reads: "...shall be the guiding criteria..."

The measure also adds a paragraph stating that nothing in the act shall force public agencies to undertake or not undertake any project.

Sen. James Q. Wedworth, D-Hawthorne, expected doubts that the addition might reduce the importance of the environment in development decisions.

But again, supporters said it simply made the intent of the law clear and would not change the functioning of the act.

The measure was sent to the full Senate for consideration.

Santa Monica beach crash claims pilot

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A student pilot was killed Thursday when his light plane crashed into the fog-shrouded ocean and sank off a public beach minutes after taking off from the Santa Monica Airport.

Lifeguard scuba divers recovered the body of the pilot, Guillermo Arias, about 30, of Los Angeles, a Costa Rican immigrant, shortly after the crash one quarter mile offshore from Dockweiler Beach south of International Airport.

Arias was the only person aboard the Cessna 150 which had taken off from Santa Monica Airport several miles to the east. The crash occurred shortly before noon.

Efforts were underway to raise the wreckage which was in 25 feet of water.

Two lifeguards at the beach reportedly saw the crash and paddled out to the scene on surfboards but the aircraft sank before they got there.

Laborites steal show at rival party's parade

EASTBOURNE, England, (UPI) — Carole Richardson, an election official for the opposition Labor party, stole the show Wednesday when she appeared at a parade sponsored by the Conservative party.

Miss Richardson climbed onto the roof of a car in the motorcade and stripped to a bikini covered by "Vote Labor" slogans.

Hitchhikers Lobby enters action with thumbs out

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Hitchhikers Lobby has officially registered its seal —a raised fist with thumb extended—with the state and announced its support for a thumbing bill introduced in the Assembly.

Richard Vega, 22, Los Angeles, head of the lobby formed last October with a membership of about 30, said Thursday the group represents all "California residents who must rely on thumbing as a primary means of transportation."

Vega called hitchhiking a "legitimate mode of transportation in its own right" and an "alternative to urban transportation problems."

In announcing his support for legislation (AB1457) by Assemblyman John Dunlap, D-Napa, Vegas said, "Whatever the reason, hitchhiking is here to stay.

"There has been a hue and cry in recent years because hitchhiking has burgeoned into a popular means of getting around primarily with the younger generation," he added.

"This is because of lack of money, the lack of any truly efficient convenient mass rapid transit system in California, and a spirit of adventure on the part of many people."

Dunlap's legislation is similar to that in effect in Poland since 1958. It would provide for the issuance of identification cards, called "Autohitch" licenses, by the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMW).

The card, designed to be clearly visible to the motorist, would be sold under a fee system calculated to cover the cost of the program.

The applicant would be checked by the DMV for evidence of any criminal record, except traffic violations. Those with records would be refused.

"There would no longer be the element of fear and danger involved that is sometimes associated with hitchhiking," Vega said.

Spoon-fed

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — Edible spoons and aerating straws are in the wind. The Dairy Research Digest says the spoons were developed in an unnamed Scandinavian country. Only the bowls are edible — the handles are plastic. The bowls made of a milk sugar are colored light blue and the milk-only variety are yellow. They dissolve while they sweeten and lighten coffee or tea.

Manhunt is over; slayer was suicide

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Fitzhugh Lee Lyday had been the object of a police manhunt since May 22, when he shot his wife to death on a city sidewalk as she walked home from a morning church meeting.

Thursday, a hiker found Lyday's body, the .32 caliber automatic which killed his wife clutched in his right hand. The body was only a few hundred yards away from the shooting site.

Police said he apparently shot himself to death shortly after gunning down his wife, and lay undiscovered in a clump of bushes on a hillside beneath the state capitol for more than two weeks.

Lyday, a 67-year-old retired brickmason and outdoorsman who lived in a pickup truck camper, left a note after his estranged wife's death.

Police said the note said he was "sorry about everything," and indicated he planned suicide.

For several days after the shooting, police combed the canyons and foothills around the capitol, and concluded that Lyday had "disappeared without a trace."

His badly decomposed body was found Thursday on a slope of Capitol Hill, only 25 yards from a heavily traveled road.

Police said Lyday was a former Utah resident who had been living in Arizona since breaking up with his wife a year and a half ago. His truck was registered to F.L. Lyday, Dolan Springs, Ariz.

The truck, an aluminum boat lashed to the top, and its outboard motor in the front seat and Lyday's personal effects were willed to his son in the suicide note.

Bahamas win freedom from England

LONDON (UPI) — The House of Lords granted independence to the Bahamas Thursday and the government said Prince Charles will attend the independence celebrations Sunday.

Lady Tweedsmuir, minister of state for foreign affairs, announced before the vote that Queen Elizabeth's son and heir will attend.

Lady Tweedsmuir said the British Government had not felt able to accede to the request of inhabitants of the island of Abaco for special Crown Colony status.

Replying to the debate, she said she feared that if Abaco were allowed to secede there would be a real risk of fragmentation in the Caribbean.

There had been no requests from either the duly elected democratic government of the Bahamas or from the opposition that there should be fragmentation, she said.

"We should not now in this house try to encourage what is obviously minority opinion to bring dissatisfaction among islands who we hope will start their independence in the most united and happiest way of possible," she said.

Striped bass might develop in Southland

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The finding of six tiny striped bass in the California Aqueduct south of the Tehachapis indicates the sport species may develop in Southern California in the next few years, the Department of Fish and Game says.

The inch-long bass, found Monday, apparently traveled the length of the aqueduct from the Sacramento River Delta, the DFG said Wednesday.

Ken Aasen, associate fishery biologist, said the size of the bass indicated it would take at least two years for a fishery to develop in the aqueduct or aqueduct reservoirs. He said such a fishery was not likely to be self-sustaining because the bass would lack the habitat required to spawn.

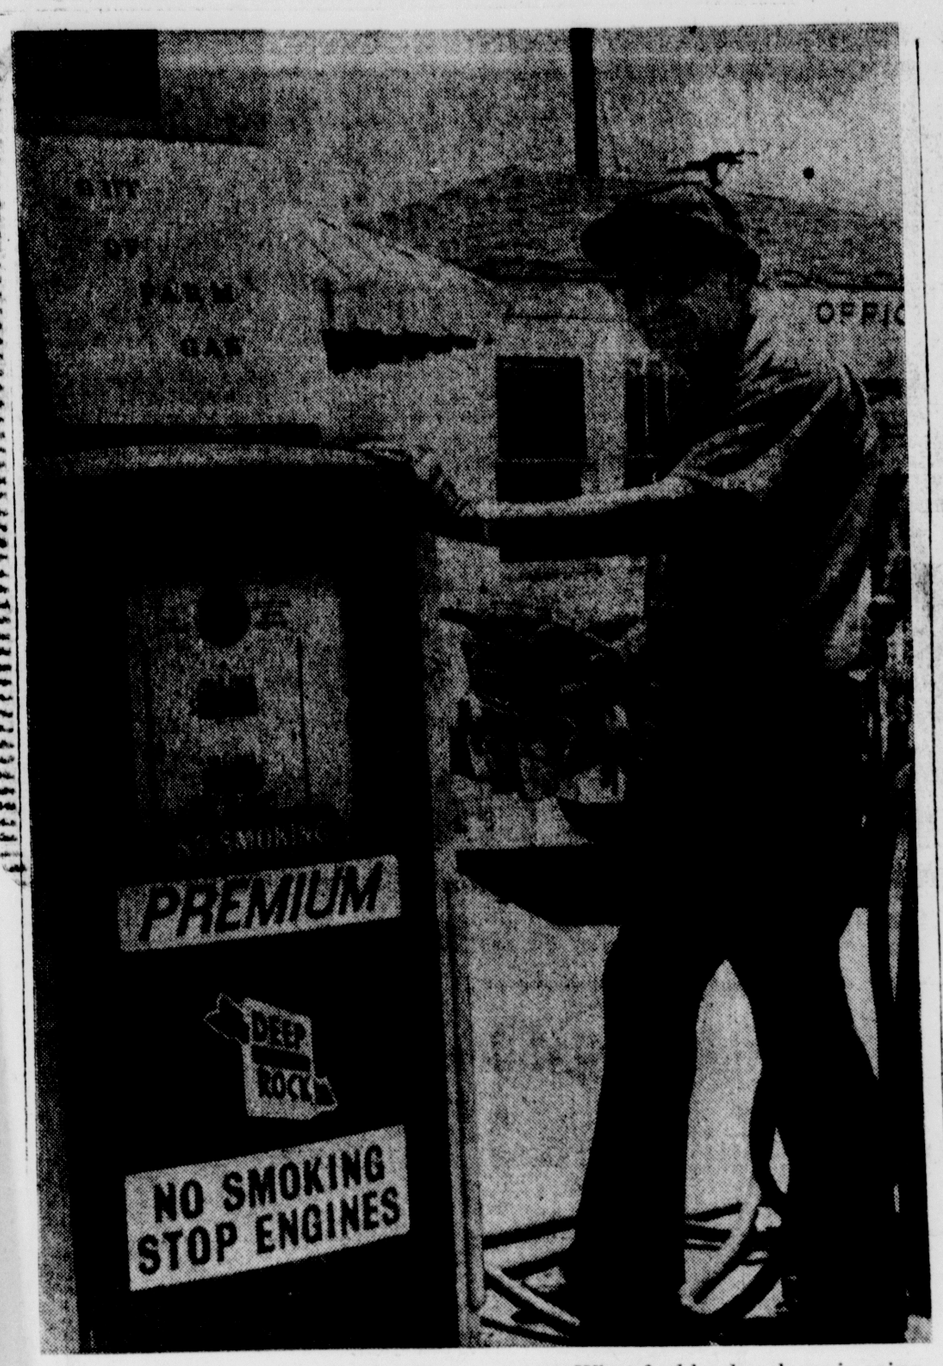

The DFG said the only present fishery for striped bass in Southern California is the Colorado River, principally in the Lake Havasu area.

NO GAS LEFT — Harvest of a big wheat crop in Texas is threatened by gas pump signs like this at the Harlan Mullins station in Burkburnett. What fuel he does have is going into automobile gas tanks, not combine tanks. "We don't have any . . ." Mullins' wife says.

Empty gas pumps may ruin Texas bumper wheat crop

BURKBURNETT, Tex. (UPI) — This year's wheat crop has the potential of being the third best in Texas history—a crop that could revive the sagging economy in the wheat belt. But because of the nation's fuel crisis, that wheat may whither in the fields.

"This is our peak period," Wanda Young, the manager of the area's biggest grain elevator, said Thursday. "We have great looking crops. All we got to do is get them in. If we have a fuel shortage this grain is left in the fields—period.

"Consequently it affects everybody—everybody that buys a loaf of bread, a box of cereal or hamburger meat. Wait 'til its hits the supermarket."

This year's Texas crop is predicted to reach 83.2 million bushels and its predicted value is $208 million. The largest crop in the state's history was the 116 million bushel crop of 1947 and the second largest was 84 million bushels in 1961.

The last two years yielded very poor harvests and Bill Nelson, executive director of the Texas Wheat Producers Association, said if this year's crop can be harvested it would be an economic boost for the area. He said much of the money generated by the crop would go into home repairs, new cars, pickup trucks and major appliances.

"This is money that will turn over many, many times in the local towns and won't be banked off in some distant area," Nelson said.

But because of a shortage of fuel oil to power combines that harvest the wheat and diesel oil for the trucks that take the wheat to market, this economic shot in the arm may never be realized. Already, the company that supplies 85 per cent of the fuel sales to farmers and combiners in the area, has closed because of lack of fuel.

"We're closing the doors and going home," said Mrs. Harlan Mullins of Mullins Butane Co. "It don't seem like anybody cares. We don't have any (fuel). This is it. Nobody cares, nobody will believe me."

Henry Johnson, the father of Robert Johnson—one of the largest wheat elevator operators in North Texas—said his company is having trouble buying diesel fuel for its huge trucks that haul the fresh cut wheat. He said his main supplier of fuel ran out Wednesday.

"But I really don't feel there is diesel fuel shortage," he said. "They just want to hike the prices. They have the advantage on us because we have to have it to operate. If you can't get the fuel, you're out of business."

THEOSOPHY

CYLIC RETURN OF THE IMMORTAL SOUL

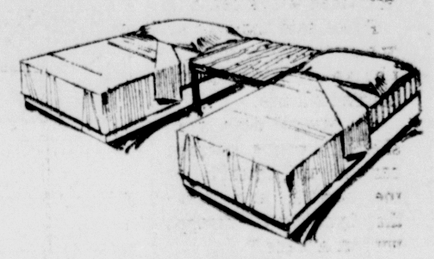

Theosophy teaches that MAN is a soul passing through a series of experiences in incarnations. Each individuality becomes re-embodied during numerous existences and accumulating the experiences toward its perfection. The nature of each incarnation depends upon the way in which the individual has lived and thought. The misery of any individual or nation or race is the direct result of the thoughts and acts of the EGOS or SOULS who make up the race or nation. The universal law is, that harmony or balance must be restored if violated. ("OCEAN OF THEOSOPHY" page 96.) A free discussion of the laws and principles of LIFE is held every Saturday 8 P.M. to 9:15 P.M. at 507 Texas St., Pomona. Questions invited.

New organization chartering scheduled

The women of Trinity United Methodist Church will hold a celebration to become United Methodist Women at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Walter Fuhrman will preside at the celebration to be held in the sanctuary and later at the tea to be served in Wesley Parlor.

The Lyricsingers, directed by Mrs. Clemett Neibel and accompanied by Mrs. Malcolm Metcalf, will present music.

Installing the new officers of United Methodist Women will be the Rev. Dorsey Allen. All present will take part in a charter ceremony. Each woman of the church is urged to attend and become a charter member of the new organization.

Several years ago it was decided to combine the Women's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guilds into one new organization. The recommendation was passed in October 1971 at the annual meeting of the Women's Division board of Missions meeting in Minneapolis.

The four mission emphases of the new organization are: Christian Personhood, Supportive Community, Christian Social Involvement and Christian Global Concerns.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Honeymoon over

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I've been married for 10 months and it isn't what I thought it would be. Right after we got married we went away for six weeks and had a really great time but since my husband went back to work things have been going downhill. I don't like the women in my neighborhood and there's just nothing to do. My husband knows I'm bored but instead of trying to help me he stays away from home more and more and pretends it has to do with his job. I know this isn't true because he works in his father's office and I have inside information through him.

I've been thinking of having a baby because I think it might help our marriage. My husband's parents have promised us a little extra income as soon as they have their first grandchild. We could use more money and I think a baby would help keep my husband's interest at home, where I feel it belongs. — K. D.

Dear K. D.: You're going through a period of disillusionment. This is not as unusual as you may think. Unfortunately, many young people feel this before the first year of their marriage is over because they had some false expectations.

Marriage is not just one long honeymoon. It involves living together and working together on a day-to-day basis and this is rarely romantic. But it can be rewarding if both partners are willing to give it a chance. Dr. John Levy says this common period of disillusionment does not come primarily from the unromantic facts we learn about our partner in the course of daily observation, but it comes largely because we see that we are our same old selves. Our new-found charm and prowess and glamour evaporate when we can no longer read them in a worshipping gaze of a spouse. What you and your husband are facing now is part of growing up.

No matter how much your husband's parents or your parents may want a grandchild, this is the wrong time for you to have a baby. Children rarely hold marriages together and until you and your husband have overcome and worked through your problems, it would be unfair and unwise to bring a child into the world. If you are bored and you feel you need extra money you ought to go out to work. Get a job — full-or part-time. There's no reason for you to spend everyday at home trying to fill your time with neighbors you don't like. If you don't want a job, or if you are not qualified for a job you'd like, ask your parents if they would be willing to help pay for courses that would prepare you to do something that would interest you. The more you fulfill yourself as a person, the better your marriage will probably be, for you will have more to share with your husband and you will be able to bring things of interest into your home and your marriage.

The kind of boredom you feel now can be dangerous if you allow it to continue. Boredom is injurious to health, and often makes people do foolish things that they regret later. One way to fight boredom is to plan activities and this can be done even on a low budget. Get together some friends both you and your husband like and plan some evenings with them. Think of new ways to use time and include your husband in these adventures.

If your assumption is true — that he's staying away from home deliberately — then chances are that he is bored too and would welcome some positive suggestions from you. Don't make the mistake of nagging and accusing him. This is a negative, destructive approach. Instead, talk to him, tell him how you feel and that you want to start adding some new elements to your marriage.

Dr. Levy says that the first step toward permanent and satisfying marriage is the willingness to accept oneself and one's partner on the level of everyday living, to take the worse along with the better. Having a baby or an extramarital affair will not save your marriage, but sharing new ideas and making plans for a better future together will.

Erma Bombeck

At the awards assembly this year, I fully expected the principal to ask for complete silence, signal for a drum roll and announce, "This year, the school's highest award, the solid gold millstone, goes to the only boy in the senior class who rode a bicycle to school."

Amid thunderous applause, the entire auditorium would rise to its feet as a body while my son approached the stage, dragging his three-speed behind him like a cross.

The principal would then put his arm around his shoulder and announce, "Of course we are proud of our valedictorian and our salutatorian, but no one has more respect for his gut-courage than the class pedestrian!"

This sounds dramatic, But if the testimony of our son is true (and we have every reason to doubt it), he is the only boy in North America who served out his final year without benefit of an automobile.

According to him, every other boy in the free world between the ages of 16-19 fell into a group:

(a) Boys who were building their own car.

(b) Boys who were buying their own car.

(c) Boys whose parents gave them a car for not biting their fingernails.

(d) Boys who borrowed their parents' car when they were running late (from 1969-73).

(e) Boys whose bicycles were being repaired (waiting for parts to come in from behind the Iron Curtain countries).

I don't want to take anything away from the class pedestrian, but frankly, as a parent, I don't think I could live through the hassle again.

Every morning, we engaged in a daily divorce to see who got custody of the car. He spoke first.

"I need the car because I have a dental appointment and my bike will scratch your trunk. Also because I can't carry my science project which is a reconstructed dinousaur. In addition, Ralph Nader is recalling my foot pedal and I almost got run off the road yesterday by a drunken driver and I lost the chain and my bike will be stolen and the tire is flat and it is supposed to rain this afternoon. Besides, no one rides a bike to school but the teachers."

One morning, I was even on the verge of breaking down (and in) and muttered, "I am going crazy."

Are you ready for this? He offered to drive me there when he got home from school.

ELEVEN THOUSAND HAMBURGERS — That's one way of describing Satan, a Brahma-Shorthorn cross steer owned by Jack Mericle of Kuna, Idaho. Satan is six foot, four inches tall at the withers and about 12 feet long. His chest measures 11 feet two inches around and he weighs in at a cool 4,000 pounds. The steer is five years old and his owner feels he is the largest such animal in the U.S. Mericle says Satan may well surpass the weight record of 4,700 pounds before he stops growing.

Robbers still can be gallant

TREVIGLIO, Italy (UPI) — It was a touching moment.

First, two masked gunmen touched a Treviglio bank for $16,700.

Then a few minutes after they fled, police said Tuesday, they returned to tell the bank's woman teller, "Until we meet again, arrivederci."

Even the best can go wrong

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Any time you give your partner a chance to make a mistake he may make it. The better the player, the less chance that it will happen, but we have seen the best players in the world go wrong time and time again.

South won the diamond in his hand. He saw eight top tricks and that the best way to go after more was to take two heart finesses.

His eight of hearts lead lost to East's queen and the deuce of clubs was led back. South played the three and West was in with the queen.

This hand is taken from the finals of a regional open. East and West were good players and West had no problem about what to do next. He played his king of clubs and declarer was down one.

This would have cost an important overtrick if South held the ace and jack of clubs, but West knew that South could not hold both of them.

How did he know this? Wouldn't East lead his fourth best automatically?

Not on your tintype! East would have led his highest club if he didn't hold an honor, so as to make sure that his partner would know the situation.

Royal romance no prize for English hamlet

GREAT SOMERFORD, England (UPI) — They handed out prizes recently to the tidiest and prettiest villages in Wiltshire County and Great Somerford (pop. 450) won none for the first time in five years.

For that, the village blames the romance of Princess Anne and her fiance, Lt. Mark Phillips, whose family lives in Great Somerford.

Parish Council Clerk Brian White, 37, blamed the poor showing on newsmen who thronged to the village whenever Anne visited the Phillips home, and on the curious who swarmed in whether Anne was visiting or not.

"So many visitors brought litter and parking problems that we couldn't cope," White said. "This is the one regret the village has about the royal romance."

Fogbound ships in collision

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (UPI) — Two freighters collided in a dense fog Tuesday in the Strait of Juan de Fuca. There were no injuries.

The crash, off the small Indian village of Neah Bay at the northwest tip of the State of Washington, involved the 564-foot Wayway, a log carrier, and the 544-foot Oriental Mariner, a container ship under the Panamanian flag.

The Wayway proceeded under its own power to a shipyard in Seattle. Tugboats were called to tow the Oriental Mariner to port. The Coast Guard said visibility was 500 yards at the time of the impact.

Buried trucks nets evidence of theft ring

SAN LEANDRO (UPI) — Using bulldozers, police unearthed parts of more than 100 trucks in a storage yard and said Monday they had evidence of a statewide vehicle theft ring.

On the 10-acre yard, they turned up a 30-foot truck trailer, a 40-foot trailer, a dump truck trailer, axles, radiators, front end assemblies and three frames under a land fill.

Detective Ronald Blair said the evidence would lead to 20 arrests but declined to say where or when.

The yard is owned by brothers Paul and Ernest Manig, independent truckers, but Blair said they had not been arrested.

Local, state and federal authorities took part in the three-year investigation leading to the discovery.

Winds hewed $3 million in wood

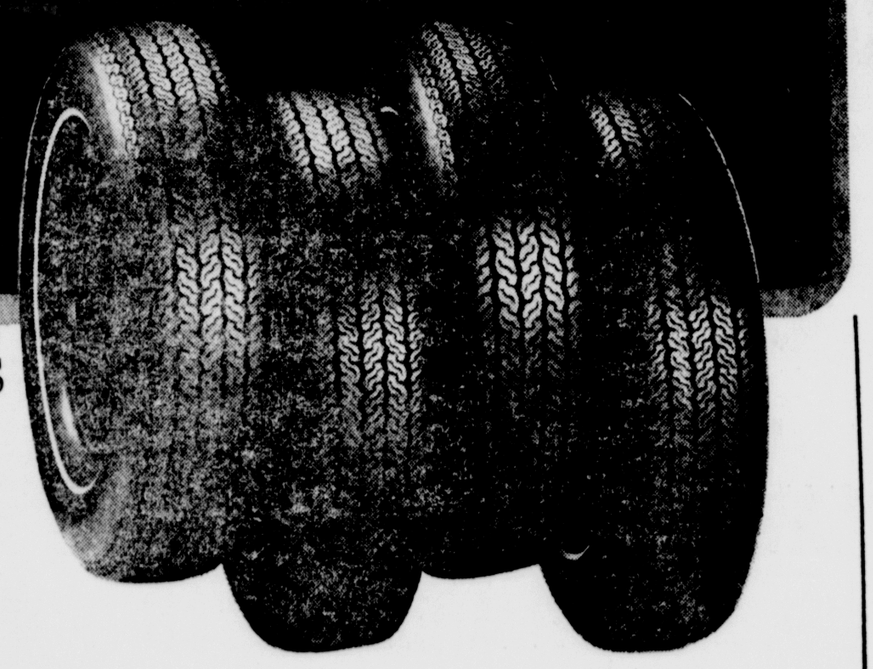

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The tornadoes that struck Alabama May 27 destroyed 15 million trees containing 1.5 billion board feet of lumber, the Alabama Forestry Commission estimated Monday.

The commission estimated the loss at $3 million.

Foresters said a 62-mile strip of damage to woods and forests was reported between Greensboro and Wilton.

Costlier materials and more of them are what upgrade the quality of these.

Made with two full belts of steel cord – super strong, yet flexible. These steel belts are laid over four bias plies of polyester. This combination gives you a comfortable ride and exceptional resistance to road hazards. And this construction also reduces "tread squirm," which is what makes non-belted tires wear out sooner.

Whitewall
Name: Super Shell® Steel Belted Tire.

Our Best

Shell's performance specifications for this one are particularly high. It's our best tire ever. Two belts of strong, pliant steel cord – reinforcing two radial plies of polyester cord. You can feel the difference driving on these. Comfortable – not hard. Excellent response to braking, acceleration, cornering. Mileage depends on how and where you drive. We drove our test tires for over 40,000 miles on a demanding city-and-surburban test course.

BONUS: Compared to conventional tires, radials can reduce your gasoline consumption. The reason: radials have a lower rolling resistance to the road than other tires do.

Citizenship snags cleared up--better late than never

My application for citizenship has been lost for the second time.

I would like to have become a citizen before the general election in November 1972. I grew up behind the Iron Curtain so I didn't really know what a free election was until I came to this country.

When my papers were lost by the U.S. Immigration Naturalization Service, Congressman Jerry Pettis helped me obtain a new appointment for an interview in July 1972. I was photographed and fingerprinted again.

His office then wrote that my papers had been lost again. I haven't heard from him since September.

Can you help me get some action? — R. O., Pomona.

We contacted Congressman Pettis and he immediately helped you take care of the details necessary to complete citizenship requirements.

You came to our office the other day to report that you are now a citizen.

After exhaustive, futile efforts to collect from our medical insurance company for two operations which I had last June 6 and Aug. 22, I am hoping you can help me.

When I did not receive anything on the first operation (total cost $578, of which Medicare paid $462.40) after a couple of months, I wrote to the company. After a delay of one month, October, I received a card stating the records were being checked and I would hear from them shortly.

I heard nothing more until a letter Dec. 24 saying they had no record of my claim. The company asked me to send a copy of the explanation of Medicare benefits, which I sent to them Dec. 26.

At the same time, I sent the explanation of Medicare benefits for the operation performed Aug. 22. The total cost of that operation was $210, of which Medicare paid $168. Since then, I have received no further word from the company.

I cannot understand the statement that the company did not receive the claim as both claims were sen in by the doctor's office.

Due to the delay in settlement, I paid the doctor bills remaining after Medicare paid. Since my husband and I live on a retirement income, this really worked a hardship on us. — F. D., Pomona.

We wrote to the medical insurance company in February on your behalf. In April the firm's public relations representative replied that your claims had been processed and that a check for $115.60, the difference between the cost of the first operation and the amount Medicare paid, had been issued for you.

He stated that the check for $42, the difference between the total charge for the second operation and the amount Medicare paid, should reach you in a few days.

You told us in May that you had received the $115.60 but not the $42. We wrote again to the company and were told by phone that the $42 had not been paid because of a human-plus-computer error but would be forthcoming.

NOTE TO G.I.S:

If you are receiving a monthly check from the Veterans Administration for attending school below the college level, your June check may be late.

A law change last October made education benefits payable at the first of the month instead of the end of the month. But the law still requires that the final check be held until the student's attendance is certified by his school.

Buffums' chain reports record sales quarter

POMONA — First quarter sales for the Buffums' specialty department store chain, which includes a store here, were the highest on record, Vaile G. Young chairman and chief executive announced.

For the three months ended April 30, 1973, sales rose 14 per cent to $8,980,396 from $7,866,827 in the like period last year.

The gains were made with no increase in selling space and all nine of the firm's existing stores contributed to the higher sales figure, Young said.

Earnings in this seasonally low period more than tripled to $146,491 from $42,864 in the same months last year.

On a per share basis, profits equaled 15 cents a share on the 955,952 average shares to be outstanding after payment of a 5-for-4 stock split on June 14, 1973, compared to five cents a share on the 929,375 average shares outstanding a year ago, adjusted for the split.

Young said the increased profitability stemmed not only from the economies of greater sales per square foot of selling space but also from a decrease of nearly 2 per cent in expenses expressed as a percentage of sales compared to the preceding year's period.

The first quarter results raised sales for the running 12 months ended April 30, 1973, to $40,906,694 from $37,446,862 in the comparable period a year earlier.

Earnings for the 12 months were $1,150,904 or $1.22 a share compared to $846,436 or 90 cents a share for the corresponding period a year earlier.

"Consumer spending is continuing at a high level in the territory of our stores — Los Angeles, Orange and particularly San Diego Counties — and shows no signs of abating," Young said.

"Thus sales for the remainder of the fiscal year should benefit from store-for-store increases as well as the five-month contribution of the new Laguna Hills store scheduled for opening in September in time for the Christmas trade.

"Accordingly, earnings for the full year ending Jan. 31, 1974, should approximate $1.44 a share, up from $1.14 a share in the prior fiscal year, adjusted for the split."

Buffums' operates nine department and specialty stores in the three counties and has four additional stores either in the construction or planning stages in the same counties.

If it's 4-foot cabbage

When's 1 head better than 4?

POMONA — Mrs. Carol Fernandez and her two children may have a month of munching on a single cabbage head growing in her back yard.

The cabbage, one of several behind her house, measures 45 inches across and would fill a washtub.

"It is the largest I have ever grown," said Mrs. Fernandez of 965 Weber St.

The garden, which measures about 20 by 70 feet, also contains corn, tomatoes, leeks, mints, egg plants, celery, squash, herbs.

Mrs. Fernandez began her garden three yars ago. "I use no pesticides and only organic fertilizer," she said.

"I don't think pesticides are good to eat. Even if sprayed on, these penetrate into the vegetables."

She does use bamboo sticks to trap tiny insects which munch on her vegetables. "After feeding, they will crawl inside the bamboo," she explained.

Mrs. Fernandez then feeds these tiny pests to her chickens.

Besides cutting down on her grocery bill, she has found the garden a "good outlet." She spends several hours a week pulling weeds and harvesting her crop.

Vegetables are grown in the garden all during the year. "It provides most of our fresh vegetable needs," she said.

Second thoughts about China trade

The vast majority of Americans favor more trade and diplomatic contacts with China, if a recent survey can be projected to the population at large.

According to David J. Mahoney, president and chairman of Norton Simon, Inc., a public opinion survey covering all 50 states, commissioned by his company, disclosed that:

—About 84 per cent of all those questioned favor increased diplomatic relations with the Chinese government.

—Some 72 per cent favor increased trade with the Chinese and more than half favor legislation removing obstacles from Chinese imports.

The latter numbers, Mahoney told a Commonwealth Club of California audience in San Francisco, are surprising in view of rising protectionist sentiment in America. But we should not, he cautioned, expect a sudden wave of trade with the mainland regime.

Even if we do business with China, it will be fairly modest. U.S. trade with China went from $5 million in 1971 to $92 million in 1972 and may get past the $350 million mark this year, making us China's second largest trading partner after Japan.

"But that isn't a lot," Mahoney points out. "China's total external trade last year was only $2.5 billion, which is small for a major country."

Mahoney visited China last year to conduct negotiations to import ginger root, edible oils and Mao-Tai, a Chinese ceremonial drink. Based on his observations, he foresees increasing demand from China for American equipment and technology.

"The best markets seem to be in items which will help China move ahead — film processing equipment, Geiger counters, food processing equipment, computer technology, petrochemicals, fertilizer." Also, if rumors that China has great oil reserves prove true, drilling equipment, pipelines and refineries.

On the negative side, says Mahoney, there doesn't seem to be much of a market among the Chinese for cosmetics, fashions or luxury items like cars and jewelry. As for clothing, Chinese garb "is almost uniform, with slight variations in tone and color."

The long-term prospects for increased trade with China will be greatly influenced by a number of things, including the political future of Taiwan and the attitudes of the aging Mao Tse-tung's successors.

But the United States will do business with China, says Mahoney, because "we cannot afford to concede to our competitors a market that represents almost a quarter of the world's population.

"While this potentially significant market will take time to mature, and in spite of recent indications of rising prices in China, I am very enthusiastic about our initial prospects for trade."

Computers, petrochemicals, high technology for ginger root, edible oils and Mao-Tai. Is there really that much cause for enthusiasm?

'Killer instinct' politics dominate

Until the political horrors of 1972, the phrase "the killer instinct" had unmistakably high standing in the business. Big winners were said to find it indispensable. They and their aides boasted if they had it, and scored those who didn't.

In political lexicon, it was a good deal like saying you have to hate the adversary a little, which the late Vincent Lombardi said a good football team had to do on Sundays. No question, it meant being willing to play rough.

Bring together any veteran group of political reporters and you could quickly turn up reminiscences from old John F. Kennedy helpers, proudly claiming he and they had the killer instinct deemed vital to victory.

In 1960, there were so many charges of rough playing leveled against the Kennedy team that he took wry note of them when he greeted his dedicated associates the morning after his presidential nomination triumph in Los Angeles. With a broad grin, he said:

"Good morning. I want to thank you all. And I don't know you."

But is there a place in politics where bearable roughness ends, and unacceptable ugliness begins? The answer would seem to be yes. The whole existence of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee presumes this. It wars upon really ugly tactics, especially when used too late to be offset.

The line between the bearable and the unacceptable can be fine, and many candidates are tempted to cross it.

The Kennedy forces were prepared to use one device in 1960 against one of the nomination foes if they felt their situation warranted it. They decided against it, though it was a near thing.

Those who do step over the line enter a new realm altogether.

A distinguished Republican was remembering old political wars, mostly with pleasure. He himself had often been tough. But when he came to Richard Nixon's 1950 race in California for the U.S. Senate, his face clouded. He said:

"They were killers (the Nixon team). Rule or ruin. You were either for them, or against them."

Kalmbach's story on cover-up role

WASHINGTON — By President Nixon's account, aide John Ehrlichman wasn't supposed to impede the Watergate investigation but merely to make sure it didn't impinge upon national security. Yet Ehrlichman spoke only about political security when he asked Herbert Kalmbach to participate in the Watergate cover-up.

As Kalmbach has recounted the conversation to investigators, Ehrlichman warned that the investigation could "jeopardize" the election campaign. In a reference to the Democrats, he snorted: "They'll have our heads in their laps."

Kalmbach had agreed to raise money to pay the living and legal expenses of the Watergate defendants. He was never told the money would be offered as a bribe to buy their silence, but the James Bond intrigue made him suspicious.

He sought reassurances from Ehrlichman, whom he confronted in the White House in late July. Kalmbach told investigators that he put the question on a personal basis. "John," he said, "we've been friends for 10 years. You know my family and I know your family. I want you to tell me whether this assignment is proper and must be carried out."

Reassured him

He quoted Ehrlichman as reassuring him that the payoffs were entirely proper but that the secrecy was necessary for political reasons.

The last approach to Kalmbach for payoff money was made as late as January 18, 1973, at a meeting in ex-Attorney General John Mitchell's office. Kalmbach recalled that John Dean, then the White House counsel, had accompanied him to the meeting. But by this time, Kalmbach had decided he wanted nothing more to do with the project, so he quietly excused himself after 10 minutes.

As the President's personal attorney, Kalmbach has been one of the most silent men in the Watergate mystery. He has told his story to investigators, however, with quiet candor.

A few days after the Waterbuggers were caught, he was summoned to Washington by John Dean, who arranged to meet him on the street in front of the Hay-Adams Hotel. Dean carefully stressed the necessity for secrecy and then asked him to underwrite the Watergate defendant's expenses.

Ulasewicz

Dean suggested that the hush money, as it was later used, should be channeled through a burly New York private detective named Anthony Ulasewicz. The undercoverman was known to Kalmbach who, in 1969, had set up a special bank account to pay him $22,000 a year, plus expenses, for investigative work. Ulasewicz's main assignment, though Kalmbach was never told this, was to dig up dirt on Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass.

Kalmbach told investigators he collected between $210,000 and $230,000, which was distributed to the Watergate defendants.

He picked up $75,000 from Maurice Stans, the Republican finance chairman; another $75,000 from Thomas Jones, president of Northrop Corp.; and the balance from the campaign bag man Fred LaRue.

The arrangements were handled with elaborate secrecy. Kalmbach and Ulasewicz placed calls to one another through pay phones and used verbal shorthand to identify the people involved in their conversation.

'Mr Rivers'

Watergate ringleader E. Howard Hunt, for example, was referred to as "the writer," and his wife Dorothy as "the writer's wife." Ulasewicz used several aliases, his favorite being "Mr. Rivers."

Some of the money was directed to Dorothy Hunt who used the code name "Chris" in her own pay-phone calls to the other Watergate defendants.

It was this James Bond business, Kalmbach told investigators, that finally persuaded him to end his role in the Watergate conspiracy.

News story uncovers Nixon sale

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $1.25 million contribution by aerosol king Robert Abplanalp to the purchase of President Nixon's San Clemente compound might never have come to light if it had not been for a news report which the White House described as false.

President Nixon issued just enough information about the San Clemente deal to refute specific charges that he considered too damaging to go unanswered.

White House spokesmen left little doubt that nothing would have been said at all about the complex real estate transaction if the Santa Ana Register had not said a Senate committee staff member was investigating the possibility that leftover 1968 campaign funds were used to pay off the mortgage.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler criticized the Register for printing the story. He called it "totally false and unfounded."

Questions about the financing of the Spanish-style home overlooking the Pacific persisted. So on May 25 the White House issued an explanation which answered some of them.

The White House said Nixon purchased a total of 28.9 acres in 1969 for a total of $1.5 million. To make the down payment and meet other expenses, the President borrowed $625,000 from Abplanalp, a Bronxville, N.Y., industrialist who became a multimillionaire by developing a successful valve for the aerosol can. The loan was not previously announced.

Nixon only wanted the house and the surrounding 5.9 acres. So, the White House said, he sold the other 23 acres for $1,249,000 to "an investment company set up by Mr. Abplanalp for the purpose of acquiring and holding this land." The sale was made Dec. 15, 1970 but was not previously announced.

What is the name of Abplanalp's investment company? Ziegler, despite frequent inquiries, refused to say.

Although Abplanalp —or his investment company —owns 23 acres of Nixon's compound, he is not using the land. The President continues to have full use of the entire estate.

For a net investment of $374,515 ($251,000 of the purchase price plus $123,514 in improvements) Nixon gets the house and the surrounding 5.9 acres including some excellent beaches and a spectacular view of the Pacific.

For his $1.25 million, Abplanalp gets 23 acres now being used as a buffer zone to protect the President's privacy from the curious public.

For 83 per cent of the money, Abplanalp or his company gets 79 per cent of the acreage.

When reporters asked Ziegler why the transaction was kept secret for two and a half years, he replied, "I think perhaps one reason ... is that I can see a certain sensitivity on the part of Mr. Abplanalp in assisting the President."

As newsmen sought more details, Ziegler said: "We responded to a news story ... that made false allegations against the President of the United States; severe, sericus, false allegations against the President of the United States in relation to the purchase of the California home . . .

"We went on to explain in detail in the statement, because those allegations had been made, precisely the transactions that had taken place."

Ziegler made it plain that he was not willing to say more.

So far as the White House is concerned, the matter is now closed —unless there are other charges which the president feels he must attempt to answer.

Rapid transit

For the past three months I have been going into downtown Los Angeles for four hours once a week. At first I drove but I experimented with public transportation. I found to my surprise that we now have a moderately priced and perfectly acceptable rapid transit system. One which deserves more use than it is getting.

For a dollar and a quarter one way one can get on a fast, comfortable and clean bus at the Pomona Greyhound station and ride downtown in 55 minutes. After West Covina it takes to the new exclusive bus lane and leaves behind all the bumper-to-bumper rush hour traffic. Anywhere on Broadway downtown one can get off and get on board one of the little mini-buses and for another dime go anywhere in the downtown area.

R.T.D. buses are well-driven and well-handled. Of course some of the drivers should look up the foreign word: "courtesy" in the dictionary. To them it would be a new concept. And the Pomona R.T.D. station looks like something out of Charles Addams crossed with something one would find in the deep south. But brushing these minor inconveniences aside we certainly have a good and workable transit system, at least since the new multimillion dollar bus-lane experiment has come into use on the San Bernardino freeway.

There are a few avenues this combination of circumstances opens up. One could live in Pomona or West Covina and commute to a downtown Los Aneles job very well without using an automobile. One could go to trade or business school downtown if one couldn't get what he wanted locally. And if you subtract what it now costs you for car care, gasoline, parking fees and razzled nerves it certainly can be done economically.—Philip A. Hastings, Pomona.

Gossip for today

"If elected I promise, said the eager political candidate, "to initiate measures and enact long over-due legislation that will give the drowntrodden taxpayers substantial relief."

So following the recent election in Los Angeles, what happened? Well, one of the first things was that the L. A. City Councilman voted themselves a 76 per cent pay increase and ordered a 43 per cent pay raise for the mayor.

But what's so wrong about that? That's keeping a promise isn't it? After all, councilmen and mayors ARE taxpayers.

INSIDE REPORT

Rising crisis of the economy

By Rowland Novak and Robert Evans

WASHINGTON — The paralyzing impact of the Watergate crisis on the Nixon administration has become dangerously clear in the on-again, off-again indecision over whether to tighten up the disastrous Phase III anti-inflation program, now once more under top-level review at the White House.

Time and again in the past five weeks, outside economic advisers have been instructed by presidential agents to prepare various estimates, both economic and political, on how to handle the worst inflation in this century. In each case, they were told at the last minute action would be delayed.

True, a decision for a new gas tax and tougher price controls, so often delayed by a distracted Mr. Nixon, could be announced at any moment. But even so, the valuable time already lost has eroded consumer confidence in Mr. Nixon and brought White House adviser John B. Connally nearly to the point of quitting.

So isolated has President Nixon become from the workaday business of the economy and his failing anit-inflation program that even the illustrious Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has been unable to arrange a meeting between Mr. Nixon and Rep. Wilbur Mills.

Program pegged to freeze

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, finally took the floor of the House to lay out publicly what he normally would have given the President in confidence: a new anti-inflation program pegged to a price freeze.

Mr. Nixon's refusal to see Mills on the rising crisis of the economy is entirely consistent with other presidential omissions apparently forced on him by White House preoccupations with the Watergate scandal.

Thus, before leaving the country for his summit meeting in Iceland, Mr. Nixon gave his top economic advisers carte blanche to come up with a hard anti-inflation plan for the President's study — and presumed approval — when he returned. Included among the advisers was the President's new part-time consultant, John B. Connally.

With Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, presiding, this presidentially-ordered meeting duly took place May 31. Sitting in for Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz was deputy secretary William E. Simon, the former Wall Street investment banker. Unlike laissez-faire Shultz, always a hater of price controls, Simon is an activist with a shrewd understanding of the politics as well as the economics of inflation.

But on returning from Iceland, Mr. Nixon once again did nothing — except to call another top-level meeting at the White House, this one last Monday. Still unwilling to order a tightening-up of Phase III following the Monday meeting, the President ordered that yet another session be held Tuesday, with himself present.

At this writing Mr. Nixon's administration appears to be trapped in a stalemate making it impossible to break the vicious cycle of inflation. What makes this agonizing for political activists like Connally is irrefutable evidence that lack of voter confidence in Mr. Nixon today derives from inflation as much as Watergate.

Consumer confidence lowered

Consumer pollster Albert Sindlinger, whose surveys are avidly studied in the White House Oval Office, recently reported to his clients that consumer confidence reached "recession levels" by the end of May — the first time it struck bottom in 19 months. The reason: inflation and the fear that Mr. Nixon was not doing enough to stop it.

The White House is well aware that Sindlinger's surveys, plus others, show that an overwhelming ratio of voters, up to 78 per cent, now insist on a return to some form of Phase I or Phase II anti-inflation controls program. Whatever the merits of economic conflicts between the Shultz-Stein team, and almost every other economic voice Mr. Nixon hears, the political case for immediate presidential action is beyond dispute.

More than anyone else, Connally, the master politician, understands that fact. Yet, even Connally's vaunted persuasive talent seems humbled by the President's apparent inability to make up his mind. As a result, Connally is known to be deeply disilusioned.

Simon, Connally, Burns, Mills and a vast majority of both parties in Congress now hope a break may come. But so much time has been lost to the Watergate crisis that it may be too late to reverse the anti-Nixon consumer tide brought on by runaway inflation.

Mongolism research by D.B. man draws national citation

DIAMOND BAR — Dr. Alan Sproles, a resident of Diamond Bar who is a recent dentistry graduate of USC, has received national recognition for his studen research.

Dr. Sproles won a second place award in the Edward H. Hatton competition of the International Association for Dental Research at a convention in Washington, D.C.

Entered in the predoctoral division, Dr. Sproles' research shows that there is a higher level of cyclic adenosine monophosphate (AMP) in the saliva of children who suffer from Down's syndrome (mongolism) than in that of normal children.

Since his research suggests a relationship to some chemical abnormality in these children, further studies will be made with patients at Childrens Hospital and at County-USC Medical Center.

Dr. Sproles also won an award at the Southern California Dental Association meeting in Anaheim recently for a presentation on the relationship between serum glucose and cyclic AMP to parotid saliva.

City of Hope unit proposed for D.B., Walnut, Rowland

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — A new chapter for the City of Hope is being formed by residents of the Diamond Bar, Hacienda Heights, La Habra, La Puente, Rowland Heights and Walnut areas, according to organizing members Judy Goodman and Doris Molla.

All prospective members are invited to attend a meeting to be held June 20 at Rowland Heights Music Land, 18333 Colima Road, in the Sunrise Shopping Center at 7:30 p.m.

The chapter is being formed to join individuals in service to the City of Hope on behalf of the battle against catastrophic disease.

The free nonsectarian City of Hope is supported mainly through its nationwide "family" of fund-raising auxiliaries, and needs more than $55,000 daily to keep open its doors.

No patient ever pays at the City of Hope, regardless of the complexity of treatment required or duration of stay.

For further information, persons may call Mrs. Goodman, (213) 964-6230; or Mrs. Molla (213) 964-7892.

Retiring after 39 years with schools

'I wouldn't change a day of it'

ADA MAY WARNER

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — After 39 years as a teacher and Rowland curriculum administrator, Mrs. Ada May Warner, 70, is retiring.

"I wouldn't change a day of it, not even the hard ones," Mrs. Warner says, looking back at her long career.

The toughest part of teaching was "being occasionally misunderstood by an overprotective parent" when she tried to instill "moral and spiritual concepts" in children through discipline, she remembers.

Without those concepts, children cannot "reach their full potential," which is the goal of education, she believes.

During those 39 years, Mrs. Warner served only three school districts, all in the same area. In addition to her 25 years with Rowland schools, she taught in the La Verne City (now Bonita) and La Verne Heights Districts.

Before coming to Rowland schools, she was active for one year as a minister of the United Brethren Church, now Bell Memorial Methodist Church, here, and was for nine years pastor of the Covenant Evangelical United Brethren Church in Pomona.

As the wife of Bishop Ira D. Warner, who had the responsibility for the administration of 500 churches, Mrs. Warner traveled extensively with her husband at that time and ministered to the wives of the pastors.

Mrs. Warner's memories span the time when Rowland children traveled to school on horseback to a four-room schoolhouse nestled in an orange grove with only four teachers and 90 students. Today the district has 20 schools, 785 teachers and an enrollment of nearly 15,000.

She has weathered various educational innovations, "or fads," such as the move away from using phonics as a reading tool and the brief "movement to throw grammar out."

Foremost among the constructive changes, she believes, have been the team teaching concept, outdoor classrooms, increased articulation between elementary and secondary schools, and specialized services in mental health, testing, reading, counseling and special education.

After leaving the school classroom in 1964, Mrs. Warner was made Curriculum Center teacher, where she was in charge of developing learning aids, a district service of special help to the younger, less experienced teachers.

The sheer volume of information brought on by recent scientific discoveries has put teachers "under greater pressure to get more into the daily curriculum," she stated.

As one of the area's pioneer teachers, Mrs. Warner has had many firsts in her career. She was one of the first itinerant "helping" teachers, acting president of Rowland's first teachers' organization, member of Alvarado School's first team teaching group and the first teacher in Rowland to take a sabbatical leave.

The Ada May Warner Scholarship, awarded as "a living memorial for her outstanding dedication to students," was instituted in 1964 by the Rowland PTA Council.

She is the only woman to have ever held her current position and the first woman ever chosen by voters to serve in any of California's seven top constitutional offices.

Cock Robin

Socialite gambling $250,000 on singer

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A Detroit socialite artist who now makes her home in Las Vegas is gambling a quarter of a million dollars to back an unknown singer to hopeful stardom.

Jeanne Wilson, whose late father-in-law was Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, is sponsoring a vocalist named Cock Robin.

"He's a beautiful man and dynamic performer," said Miss Wilson on a foray to Hollywood.

A lady of indeterminate age, high style and a pretty face, Miss Wilson hopes to huckster and promote her secret singer before the man actually makes a public appearance.

Most of what she says is cryptic and veiled in nutty mysticism.

"Actually, we're calling his debut the return of Cock Robin. He was killed, you know, 229 years ago when that famous nursery rhyme was written," said Miss Wilson, who is a portrait painter and sculptress.

"Now he's returned to life in a new reincarnation. It's never been proved that we don't transmigrate from one form of being to another."

Miss Wilson was stone cold sober. She also was perfectly sincere.

Asked the real name of her protege, Miss Wilson blinked in disbelief. "That's his only name. Cock Robin."

She was reminded that he was dispatched from this vale by a sparrow with an arrow a couple of centures ago.

"True," she admitted, "but he's not seeking revenge.

"I can tell you this much. Cock Robin was born in Montana. And he's not married. So far as I know he never has been. And since I took over his career no one else has seen his face."

Miss Wilson first encountered her singer, with whom she has no romantic attachement, she said, singing in Las Vegas last summer.

"He won't make a public appearance until later this summer," Miss Wilson said. "The big unveiling will be for a charity event either in Los Angeles or New York."

Why, if Cock Robin is such a great singer, is she keeping him under wraps? Is he molting? Has she another super star in the wings or just another pigeon?

"Everything has to be just right," Miss Wilson said. "I'm not interested in recording contracts until Cock Robin has exploded in public popularity.

"I'm prepared to spend $250,000 to launch a career I think will be the biggest in popular music history."

So far as anyone knows Cock Robin could be a double for Tiny Tim, but Miss Wilson describes him as tall and handsome.

She has him stashed away in the mountains somewhere. He is exercising his voice, jogging, writing poetry and communing with nature. He might even be out hunting sparrows.

"Oh, I don't think so," Miss Wilson said. "I'm not even sure he knows which sparrow shot him. If he does, he isn't saying."

Miss Wilson quoted Cock Robin as saying, "I come back at a time when the world is desperate in need of love" and, presumably of a new pop singer. All the same, $250,000 will buy a lot of birdseed whether Cock Robin makes the big time or not.

'Deep Throat' star makes 'stags' chic

NEW YORK (UPI) — There was MM and BB. Now there's LL. And a star is porn.

"Oh, hi," said Linda Lovelace as she emerged from her bedroom wearing a slinky peeka-boo dress. "Pleased to meet you."

Miss Lovelace is the star of "Deep Throat," the movie that made stag films chic.

Throat was a low-budget film about a girl with bizarre physical attributes. Its star says it has so far grossed $9 million, despite some difficulties with the law. A judge in New York, banning the film from a theater where it did land-office business, said, "Deep Throat is one throat that deserves to be cut."

"Oh, these guys are just a bunch of fuddy-duddies," Linda said, draping her graceful figure over a chair in the elegant Plaza hotel.

Despite the closings in New York and elsewhere, the film is still being exhibited in some 200 theaters across the country and a sequel, "Deep Throat II," was made last January.

"People have been repressed and they always wanted to do what I do," said the 22-year-old Miss Lovelace.

Linda, a sparkle-eyed brunette, shared Suite 869 on a recent promotional trip to New York with her manager, Chuck, who has been her companion for four years and has been involved with the pornography business since 1962.

Linda met Chuck after she graduated from Maria Regina High School, a Catholic school in the Westchester County town of Hartsdale, N.Y., where she lived with her parents. Her real name is Lovelace.

"It's English," she said. But she claims no relation to the 17th Century cavalier poet, Richard Lovelace.

"I don't write any poetry," she giggled. "Not yet, at least."

After a stint as a still photographer and a model, Linda did Throat. Since then she has been touring the country promoting herself and the film. film.

"I have a nightclub act in Las Vegas and I'm going to Nashville to cut a record," she said.

Tax limit initiative in final signature surge

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Petition circulators today began a 10-day effort to collect an additional 150,000 voter signatures needed to qualify Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax limitation plan for a special Nov. 6 ballot.

"Californians for Lower Taxes," the group Reagan set up to promote his initiative, estimated it was 150,000 signatures short of qualifying the measure Thursday as the signature - gathering drive reached its first deadline for submitting petitions to county clerks.

However, the group has 10 more days to circulate "supplemental" petitions to reach the total of 520,806 valid signatures required to place the measure for the ballot.

Dr. Norman Topping, chairman of Californians for Lower Taxes, said the group is planning "an intensive all-out" effort to obtain the needed signatures before the final June 17 deadline.

He said "thousands" of volunteer petition circulators will be ringing doorbells and working shopping centers throughout the state this weekend in a major effort to collect signatures.

STRANDED DUTCHMAN — Despite adversities he encountered trying to sail from Florida to Katwyk A/Zee, Holland, Jakob Jonker can stir a smile. He and his 35-foot sloop were towed to Key West, Fla., after days adrift with low supplies. The 40-year-old Dutchman hopes to return to his home to help his mother, who is 75, left alone when his father died. He'll return to sea after exchanging some Dutch currency and stocking up again.

Committee kills cross filing bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill restoring the practice of cross-filing in which a candidate can seek the nomination of both major parties has failed in a Senate committee.

The measure (SB351) by Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, was rejected Thursday by the Elections Committee on a 4-3 vote with five votes needed for approval.

The committee defeated the measure last month but Deukmelian was granted reconsideration.

Deukmejian has contended restoration of cross-filing, abolished in 1959, would help reduce campaign spending and could reduce unnecessary partisanship. Opponents contended it would diminish party responsibility.

Can't cite drivers without ticket book

CRAWLEY, England (UPI) — The 10 policemen on duty at Gatwick airport have not issued one traffic ticket in 10 weeks.

It isn't because everyone is a faultless driver. A police spokesman said officers are still waiting for the government to print appropriate traffic tickets.

Security law would hobble press, news executive claims in hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Washington news executive said today an administration-backed bill to overhaul the federal criminal codes would block future Watergate exposes and reduce the Washington press corps to operating as "handout reporters."

Testifying before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee, Grant Dillman, UPI Vice President and Washington Manager, urged Congress to reject the measure's national security provisions. He said the times call for more, not less, information on government activities.

Dillman spoke for the Joint Media Committee, made up of representatives of the Associated Press Managing Editors, American Society of Newspaper Editors, National Press Photographers Association, Radio Television News Directors Association and Sigma Delta Chi. He represents SDX on the group.

Present law governing unauthorized disclosure of government information requires the prosecution to prove that the information actually is detrimental to national security and that the defendant meant to harm the national interest by funneling it to an enemy.

Critics say the new approach would prevent accused persons from arguing that material was improperly classified by assuming that all government is properly classified. It also would not be necessary to prove intent to hurt the national interest but only to use the information.

Dillman strongly opposed another section of the most controversial bill offered by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., that would equate theft of government "information" with stealing federal property or documents.

"We are not talking about classified or national defense information," he said. "We are talking about information that is not supposed to be made public only because some government agency, for whatever reason, has not authorized its release.

"Consider whether (Washington Post reporters) Carl Bernstein and Robert Woodward would have been able under these circumstances to put together the jigsaw that has become Watergate. I think not. The threat of jail would have had a chilling effect on their sources, particularly if word had been passed the national security was involved."

Saying Watergate was only the most dramatic example of the kind of "hobbles" the legislation would impose on the media, Dillman ticked off a half dozen stories UPI had moved in recent days that were attributed to unnamed sources.

Included were stories that President Nixon hoped the Iceland summit would get U.S. diplomacy moving again, that Roy Ash had taken over H.R. Haldeman's old job of screening top-level presidential nominees and that Treasury Secretary George Shultz had prepared a secret memo warning Nixon that France was trying to "undercut" the United States in economic affairs.

"There were other stories in like vein," Dillman said. "Hardly Pulitzer material but typical of the stories reporters turn up daily to supplement the official pronouncements and the actual tide of events in Washington.

"They add to our understanding of government—and they probably all would be proscribed under the proposed legislation."

Shultz claims Ford's action will hurt U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz says a recent decision by Ford Motor Co. to pay a million-dollar ransom to Argentine guerrillas is likely to hurt other Americans doing business abroad.

"I don't think it is a particularly helpful thing, Shultz told a news conference recently.

Four-in-one storage center blossoms forth

By STEVE ELLINGSON

It's time to be puttering around the backyard (when not putting on the golf course!). And here's all the storage you need for all those lawn care products, gardening tools, barbecue supplies and what-not.

This is actually a four-unit, demountable storage center (approximately 8½' tall and 8' wide), and attractive any way you look at it. Versatile, too, with a counter-height potting bench, deep storage cabinets, shelves and two stage closets so large you can also use them as poolside dressing rooms (if you have a pool).

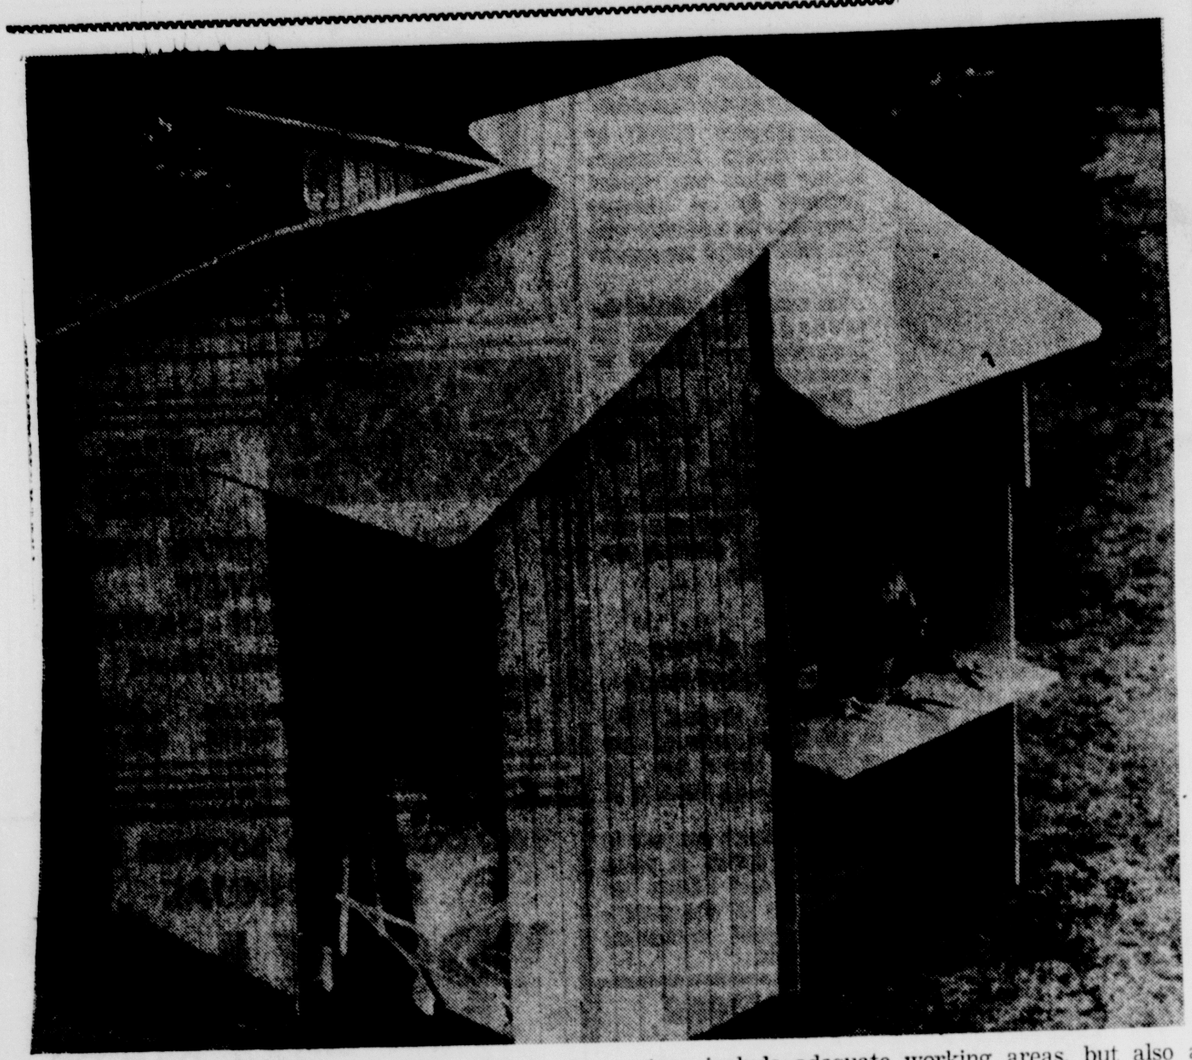

The unit with the fold-down potting bench is ideal for storing garden tools and supplies. Use the cabinet to store seeds, bulbs and plant hormones.

For barbecues, cover the unit to a work center or serving area. A lawn mower and sweeper can be set in the 2nd unit with the spacious open area at ground level. Doors on the upper part conceal a roomy two-shelf cabinet for small tools.

In the other two units with their full-height double doors, you can store rakes and shovels along with a wheelbarrow, bags of peat, fertilizer, and more tools.

A complete materials list and step-by-step instructions make this a relatively easy project. To order the Outdoor Storage Center Pattern No. 513, send $1.00 by currency, check or money order to:

HIDEAWAY HELPER — Like a practical flower, this fold-up, easily-stored work center can bloom in your yard—if you wish. Not only does the pattern include adequate working areas, but also a variety of storage space that doubles as poolside cabana when and if necessary.

Lots of fruit from small tree

Hopeless is the individual who expects something—like a bountiful reward—for nothing. But happy is the gardener who gets an abundance of fruit—and enjoyment—in limited space from dwarf citrus.

Dwarf citrus provides an abundance of dividends with very little attention or effort on the part of the home gardener. The California Association of Nurserymen suggests that gardeners visit nearby nurseries, this month, to learn which varieties are best-suited for local conditions.

At maturity, dwarf citrus trees reach a height of about eight feet—with a comparable spread. This means homeowners can utilize dwarf citrus as a landscape shrub in today's city-size gardens, or grow several different kinds in a home orchard.

Also, dwarf citrus trees make excellent tubbed plants for porch or patio. Such container-grown specimens generally do not grow as large as trees planted in the landscape. This accounts for why residents in mobile homes, apartment and condominium dwellers showcase the beauty of these favorites in tubs on balconies and in limited patio space—or on decks, several stories above the ground.

All varieties of citrus are available in dwarf form, ranging from the familiar eureka and meyer lemons to ruby pink grapefruit and limequats, which enhance the flavor of tall, cool drinks.

Types of citrus vary in their tolerance for cold weather. Hardier types include kumquats, mandarins and oranges. These may bear choice, tasty fruit in areas outside the socalled citrus belt. Grapefruit, lemons and limes may or may not fulfill fruiting expectations. Oftimes, planting against a sunny wall, where reflected heat will be trapped, solves climactic problems inherent with certain varieties. Your nurseryman can provide information on specific needs for the dwarf performers.

Dwarf citurs provides yearround beauty and enjoyment. Lush green foliage, interesting growth habits, fragrant blossoms, plus colorful and tasty fruit help explain the popularity of these easy-to-grow plants.

How to please gardening Dads

When it comes to Father's Day gifts this year, something for the home gardener is high on the shopping list. This applies whether pop putters in the soil continually — or completely lacks a horticultural instinct.

To illustrate: It would be a fickle father, indeed, that turns-up his nose at receiving a terrarium or a foliage plant for his den or office. Likewise, even the most particular pop would pop his buttons over being presented a hanging basket fuchsia — or cascading petunia's to hang from overhead on the porch — on June 17th.

There's lots of talk about garden gadgetry for dad on his day. Certainly a pair of electric shears, his own cart-type fertilizer spreader, or power lawn mower are gifts any father could brag about with pride. Perhaps a second pair of pruning clippers, or that book on a specific gardening subject he's been talking about, or a hose reel that's really needed in the back yard, would serve as equally-appreciated gifts.

The man of the house may be delighted with a collection of herbs. Nurseries have small pots of the most popular herbs — which the backyard barbecuer could use to add flair and flavor to his culinary creations.

A distinctive bonsai plant would bring smiles to the dad that's a hobbyist. One needn't be a veteran horticulturist to thrill over a tubbed dwarf citrus — to display and enjoy on the sunny porch or patio. Your nursery will offer the citrus varieties best-suited for local climates.

There are plants pre-shaped into globes, pyramids and topiaries. Maintaining these, and continuing to shape them is a fun gardening experience that requires no actual expertise, states the California Association of Nurserymen. Wax leaf privet, eugenia, myrtus, certain junipers, and several other popular plants are offered by nurseries this way—and a host of others are available on trellises, as espaliers. There is a pride of ownership associated with growing these specimenrs. The shapes, coupled with the natural beauty, are a creation of distinctive beauty which draws admiring looks and complimentary comments from all who view them.

Human skull no cause for stir

APTOS, Calif. (UPI) — Two hikers found a human skull perched on a pile of beer cans near Nisenmarks State Park and informed Santa Cruz County sheriff's detectives.

"I don't think we are going to get very excited about it," said investigator Ben Seibel after an examination showed the skull was that of a man who had been dead about 10 years.

Cactus expert offers advice

Care and feeding of cactus and succulent plants takes center stage at the June 14 meeting of the San Gabriel Valley Cactus and Succulent Society.

In the 7:30 p.m. session at the state and county arboretum at 301 N. Baldwin Ave., Arcadia, authority Ted Hutchinson will discuss "Soils, Fertilizers, and Additives." Refreshments and a drawing for a plant will be included in the open session.

New varieties available

Bougainvillea opens for long run

Few vines can put on such a color show for such a long, long blooming season as the bougainvillea.

The semi-tropical plant is one of the most envied by easterners, who view it in all its summer splendor here in the Golden State. It grows and flowers spectacularly in many parts of California — from desert regions to coastal gardens.

The bougainvillea is an evergreen, and practically everblooming, too. It makes an especially good planting against a warm, sunny wall, or under protective eaves on the south side of the house. Where frost is not a factor, certain varieties serve as glorious ground covers on slopes. Bush-form bougainvilleas, such as the vibrant red crimson jewel, are excellent for featuring in containers — or as low-growing shrubs to highlight the landscape, suggests the California Association of Nurserymen. In marginal areas, where winter temperatures may pose a threat, growing bougainvilleas in portable tubs enables the gardener to move them into a protected spot.

There's nothing wrong with the familiar red, magenta or purple bougainvilleas. Their popularity continues to increase year after year. But, for those who like the unique and unusual, or who seek extraordinary color, bougainvilleas also come in shades of pink, bronze, bronze-orange, rose-sunset and gold — and now, even in white. Jamaica white has spectacular masses of blooms, which, in cooler weather, are tinged with pink.

A newer bougainvillea is called surprise. You'll find white or magenta-rose blooms in clusters together, or separately, at random, all over the plant.

Many nurseries now offer double bougainvilleas. The double bracts add a new dimension to this California favorite. They come in shades of magenta red and soft-yellow gold.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Set out hibiscus plants in a warm, protected spot. You'll enjoy shopping for the luscious colors—and flower forms—available, which will provide a bountiful crop of blooms throughout summer.
2. Pinch back annual flowers to make them branch-out at the side. This results in sturdier plants and much more bloom.
3. Pelargoniums and geraniums may be planted in full bloom now, from nursery containers. Choose a sunny spot for them and water frequently.
4. Whether it's for stretching the family budget, or just for the experience of savoring home-grown vegetables, plant these now for summer harvests: Corn, beans, beets, carrots, cucumbers, radishes, and squash.
5. Deep watering and mulching of trees and shrubs are good summer garden practices.

Noted garden expert talks about roses

Devotees of the near-mystic art of rose growing are invited to attend a presentation by noted consultant Joe Littlefield Monday evening at the Upland Public Library.

Appearing at the 8 p.m. meeting of the Inland Valley Rose Club, Littlefield will discuss roses and garden problems.

A long-time associate of the Bandini fertilizer company, Littlefield is a widely-publisher writer, lecturer, and landscape consultant.

Lib gardener grows bulbs by neglect

By FRANK J. TAYLOR

When I first became a daffodil and tulip enthusiast I gardened by the book, spading the soil in the beds ten to twelve inches deep and burying the bulbs six to eight inches down in the earth.

After the blossom show was over and the leaves had dried, I dug bulbs by the hundred, washed them in water spiked with pesticide-fungicide, dried them in the sun and stored them in a dark, cool place until time to replant them in October.

"This is a lot of labor for three or four weeks of blossoms," I complained.

"Yes, but it's worth it," rhapsodized The Flower Committee, "The first blossoms of Spring."

She didn't get down on her knees and plant bulbs and she didn't dig them, either. Another thing that bugged me was that, despite my careful husbandry, the bulbs became smaller each year, although much more numerous. I was lamenting this deterioration one day to a big bulb grower in Oregon.

"In your hot summers the bulbs mature too soon," he explained. "They don't have time to size up before they go dormant."

"Just how do I cope with that problem?" I asked.

Two ways," he said. "Either buy new bulbs from me each fall, or leave your old ones in the ground and neglect them."

Right then I decided to try growing bulbs by neglect the lazy and easy way. That fall instead of planting daffodils and tulips deep in the soil, where they'd have to fight their way up to sunlight, I rototilled a plot, made shallow trenches and pushed the bulbs into the soft soil with their noses barely covered by earth. (In cooler climates, of course, they would have to be pushed deeper for protection against freezing.)

Came spring and the daffodils and tulips burst into bud almost a month ahead of schedule. We had a show of color before the neighbors' daffs were out of bud. That season, instead of digging and dividing bulbs, I left them in the ground. They jumped the gun on Spring and have done it year after year as they acclimated themselves.

Most of the daffodils came up in thick clumps and made full-size blossoms. The tulips, for some reason, became thinner. Some varieties winked out completely. I don't know why, unless it is because rodents relish tulip bulbs but seldom touch daffodils.

Intrigued by this experiment, I tried out the neglect technique with other bulbs. Lilies thrived on it, except for some hybrids that lacked vigor. Hyacinths increased in size and number, as did Dutch iris and gladiolas. Likewise, China lilies which now put up stems two feet tall.

Although I thought the bulbs might increase until they crowded themselves out of space, this didn't happen. Daffodils have a way of pulling themselves deeper each season. To compensate for the crowding, I give them at least two good feedings a year of 8-8-8 pellets, in the late Fall and early Spring. That's all they ask of me — plenty of food and plenty of neglect.

Sister's boyfriend kills dog

Dear Walt: My dog was hit by a car driven by my sister's boyfriend. He was high on drugs when he did it, and I can't forgive him for driving when he was like this. My parents want me to make up with him, but I can't. I promised my sister not to tell the folks about the drugs, so mom and dad think I am being very unfair to hold this grudge against Ron. They say they will do something drastic if I don't talk to Ron the next time he comes over. What should I do?—Spot's Owner

Dear Owner: Your grief is understandable, but it won't bring your dog back to life. Now you have a chance to affect another human being for the better if you'll put your energies there.

Meet with Ron someplace away from the house and let him know exactly how you feel about the loss of your pet in this senseless accident. Don't try to be cool. If tears come, don't hold them back.

When you're through venting your bottled up feelings, ask Ron to do two things: (1) To promise never to drive again for 12 hours after he's been drinking or doing drugs, and (2) To help you pick out and train another dog.

If he offers money for the animal's purchase, don't let him pay more than half. It's important that he not feel like he's bought himself out of your bad graces.—Walt

Dear Ele: I do not look good in dark colors and never wear them. As a matter of fact, the darkest dress I own is halfway between beige and sand colored. Considering this, do you think I should go to the funeral if my girl friend's mother dies?—Debbie

Dear Debbie: Even the immediate family of the deceased seldom wear full black mourning any more. For a friend of the family, a sedate beige dress would be in good taste. If, however, the dress is such that it calls attention to you, you might want to take a less spectacular dress and dye it an appropriate hue.—Ele

Dear Ele and Walt: I'm in bad with my family for coming in late the last three weekends. They blame me for the fact that my brother was just as late. What they don't know is that each time I had to spend an hour or more getting him sobered up enough so that he could look respectable. I have told him not to drink if he can't handle it, but he does it every time. What should I do?—Thom

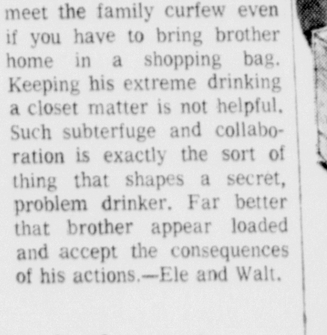

Dear Thom: Next time meet the family curfew even if you have to bring brother home in a shopping bag. Keeping his extreme drinking a closet matter is not helpful. Such subterfuge and collaboration is exactly the sort of thing that shapes a secret, problem drinker. Far better that brother appear loaded and accept the consequences of his actions.—Ele and Walt.

Salts threatening Tower of London

LONDON (UPI) — Scientists are trying to prevent part of the Tower of London from collapsing because of salt corrosion.

Stonework in the 700-year-old tower is being attacked by chloride salts absorbed 500 years ago, the scientists said. Salt was valuable then and kings turned part of the tower into a huge salt celler.

SAL grid coaches optimistic

Mike Rawlinson
Progress-Bulletin
Staff Writer

Staying competitive is a full time job

Football used to begin every September along with autumn. Now it starts in the spring and it may go all year around unless the player is a two or three sport athlete.

Over the years the sport has advanced and competitive, players and coaches must work at it long before and long after the season.

So it is for Mal Eaton, head football coach and assistant athletic director at the valley's largest community college, Mt. San Antonio.

Eaton, the former, very successful West Covina High mentor, will begin his third year at MSAC in September.

Rebuilding a grid program at MSAC was a chore Eaton saw as a challenge. And it has been that. It gets more challenging all the time, Eaton will tell you.

But along with that, the overall picture at MSAC has probably never been rosier — on paper.

About 30 players from the 1972 campaign are eligible to return for 1973, including the nation's top junior college passer, quarterback Steve Myer.

The 1972 Mounties posted the school's first non-losing season since 1967, a respectable 5-5. After four straight losing years it was a welcome change, especially for Eaton, who suffered through a 2-8 season in his rookie year as a junior college coach.

Eaton and his staff of four assistant coaches intend to keep the trend on an upward curve.

They were out in full force as spring began, covering the 20-plus high schools in the MSAC district in an effort to recruit the best prep talent in the valley.

"We've contacted a lot of kids who have given intentions of coming out in the fall," said the coach. "We've especially been looking for lineman."

The new recruits will take part this summer in a recreation passing league which will take in 24 high school teams in the district and will run four nights a week at several fields on the MSAC campus.

A class in weight and agility training for returnees and mid-term transfers, conducted four days a week this spring, is expected to pay off in results this fall.

"We plan to work very hard this summer," Eaton pointed out. "It would be safe to say that this will be a decisive summer for us. All the coaches will be involved.

★ ★ ★

Myer, West Covina product, who teamed up with a dozen Mountie receivers to establish the top passing record in the nation (181-331-17 for 2,244 yards and 14 touchdowns) will be the key figure in the attack in 1973.

If Eaton has his way, however, he'll get a lot of assistance in the form of a ground attack. The ground game was almost non-existent a year ago, except for flashes of brilliance from speedster Teddy Farmer 316 yards on 78 carries) and Dennis Rosser (179 yards on 66 carries). Farmer added over 800 yards in punt and kickoff returns.

"You can't live on the passing attack alone," said Eaton. "Myer will be stronger and faster, but he'll be more effective if we can establish a running game to complement his ability."

Since the 1973 season ended, Myer has put 10 pounds on his 6-foot-2 frame and should weigh-in near 190 when full scale drills begin Sept. 1.

★ ★ ★

A new-old face will join the coaching staff for the 1973 season. Bill Fisk, an assistant under two former MSAC head coaches and under Eaton in the 1971 season, returns to handle the defensive line after being away from football for a year. Fisk replaces Ken Wiedemann who was a part time assistant last year. Tory Matheson takes over Wiedemann's defensive backs, while Larry Schrock will handle linebackers; Ralph Craig the offensive line, and Eaton offensive backs.

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

Another year of interscholastic high school competition has subsided, but there are still a few coaches and athletes out in the field preparing for the year to come.

It's called spring training, and they're getting ready for the 1974 football season.

All eight San Antonio League schools have started their spring sessions, except this spring there are a few new faces in the coaching ranks.

Out of the eight teams, three will be heading into the '73 season with new head coaches. Three of the remaining five will only be into their second year as head skipper, while the other two can be easily proclaimed as veterans.

One of those veterans is Claremont High's Esper Keiser, last year's Pomona Valley Coach of the Year.

Keiser, who will be trying to piece together his second straight San Antonio League championship team, is working from scratch this spring.

The Wolfpack was almost completely wiped out by graduation, taking away a good portion of last year's starting lineup.

"We've lost over half of the team," explained Keiser. "With all the new faces around, we've been just stressing the fundamentals. We're a green team, and this spring has been very, very boring."

Three bright prospects will return to the Wolfpack offensive backfield, quarterback Kent Stalwick and running backs Dean Erickson and Joe Hillstock.

The only experience in the line is Mike O'Conner. Everybody else is green.

Claremont boasts only 12 seniors on a team of 60 first appearances.

"We're losing everybody from the offensive line except for O'Conner, and we have only two returning to the defense," reported the Claremont skipper.

But even with all the inexperience, Claremont has been considered as one of the league's title contenders again next year.

The other veteran coach is Garry Norvell at Ganesha High.

Last year the Giant skipper employed the Wishbone offense, and it proved to be effective toward the end of the season when his gridders won their last five consecutive league games.

Norvell is planning to go to the Wishbone again this next season, and that's what he has been working on during the spring.

"It's a little difficult to tell how good we'll be yet," stated Norvell. "But we look pretty good."

Bill Kearns, last year's back-up quarterback for the Giants behind Clyde Johnson, figures to hold the reins next fall.

"He's doing all the right things in the spring," praised Norvell or Kearn.

The Gansha coach has been imploying what he calls a "mass practice" for two hours a day on the offense.

During the mass practice, he works his players on reunning the offensive plays off the Wishbone formation — trying to achieve the perfection the Wishbone needs in order for it to be effective.

"I think we're as good as anybody. But the schedule has a lot to do with it," explained Norvell.

"It'll all depend on the teams we meet first and how they do in league," he added.

"With the different personnel this year, we can't do the same things we did last year," he added.

An earlier start than last season should be all the Giants would need to end up on top at the end of league play next year.

The three coaches going into their second year as head coaches of their respective schools are Mike Clifton of Pomona High, Bob Holycross of Upland and Jim Rawls of Chino.

And all three of those schools figure to be right in the thick of things when the fall season starts.

Clifton has had 92 Red Devils turn out for spring training this year, and one of them is All-SAL quarterback Steve Taylor.

"We've had so many guys out this year that our spring has been more like a talent show," commented the Pomona skipper.

"The first two days we just skilled and drilled, and then we started finding some positions for the guys and then worked on fundamentals," he added.

Pomona is boasting 13 returning varsity lettermen from last year, with fullback Jim Price and tailback Gary Horest returning to help Taylor in the backfield.

"If everybody that came out in the spring stayed out and developed to their potential, we would have a good shot at everything.

"But next year, league-wise, should be tougher than last year," Clifton predicted.

Trojan track hopes down, Wilson ousted

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — There were only two major surprises on the first day of the 52nd NCAA track and field championships Thursday.

One stunning thing was the fact that they could start the competition at all, considering the deluge which struck the Louisiana State University track during the afternoon.

And the second surprise came when defending champion Jerry Wilson of Southern Cal was eliminated in the 120-yard hurdles competition, and thus darkened the Trojans' chances of upsetting UCLA in the Bruins' bid for a third straight NCAA title.

UCLA suffered no disappointments in the first day of qualifying, which was delayed late into the night by a 90-minute rain, hail and electrical storm which left two feet of water standing in low spots near the track.

Other than Wilson, the glamour athletes performed as expected Thursday night, with Dave Wottle of Bowling Green cruising into the finals of the mile run, Southern University's Rod Milburn winning his heat and earning a semifinals spot in the high hurdles, Oregon's Steve Prefontaine coasting into the finals of the three-mile run, USC's Don Quarrie capturing his heat in both the 100 and 220 yard dash prelims and Trojan Randy Williams leading the field in the long jump.

Finals will be held today in the long jump, hammer throw, shot put, 120-yard hurdles, 100-yard dash and six-mile run.

Other than Querrie and Williams, the Trojans enjoyed successes from Robert Pullard, who survived the pole vault qualifying, and from Dean Owens, who moved into the finals of the high jump.

UCLA, meanwhile, advanced Finn Bendixen and James McAllister in the long jump, Jim Arnold and Rory Kotinek in the high jump, and Charles Rick and Clim Jackson in the 120-yard hurdles.

Qualifying in the hammer throw, shot put and javelin was wiped out by the rain and postponed until today.

Prefontaine set the only meet record of the day when he won his three-mile heat in 13:19 flat, which beat his own NCAA mark set two years ago of 13:20.1.

Wottle, winner at 800 meters in Munich, and defending NCAA mile champion, felt Saturday's mile final could be a quick one.

"We have got the equipment, that is the track, to run a very fast race," said Wottle. "It will all depend on the tempo that is set. This is a really great track facility and good times will be run on it.

"I felt good on my heat, but not as good as I wanted to be. I started to tighten up on my kick."

NOLAN GETS FRIENDLY ADVICE

Disneyland's King Lion and Angel mound ace Nolan Ryan team up to throw a pitch for Angels-Disneyland Funday on Sunday. Ryan didn't need any help in pitching five-hit shutout.

Dodgers battle Seaver tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Off to a winning start in a 12-game road trip, the Los Angeles Dodgers open a three-game series with the New York Mets tonight.

Andy Messersmith, a disappointment since being acquired in the off-season from the California Angels, fired a three-hitter for his first National League shutout as the Dodgers beat the Chicago Cubs 4-0 Thursday.

The Dodgers will face the Mets' best tonight, sending Tommy John, 4-2, against Tom Seaver, 7-3.

Los Angeles took three out of four from New York at Dodger Stadium last month, losing a 19-inning marathon that took five hours and 42 minutes 7-3 May 24 and then winning 6-4, 9-5 and 2-1.

In day games Saturday and Sunday, the Dodgers go with Al Downing, 5-2, and Claude Osteen, 6-3, against Jon Matlack, 2-8, and Jerry Koosman, 5-4, respectively.

Messersmith, who entered Thursday's game with a 5-5 record and a 3.49 ERA, was backed by a 12-hit attack, including a two-run homer by Willie Davis as the Dodgers took two out of three from the Eastern Division pacesetters.

"I sure hope this can start something," the Dodger righthander said. "I'm looking forward to it and I think the club is, too."

Davis had two hits as did Dave Lopes, Bill Buckner and Willie Crawford.

Rookie third baseman Ron Cey gave Messersmith a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning with a run-scoring single off Cub starter Rick Reuschel, now 6-4. Davis' homer came in the eighth inning and Messersmith scored all the way from first base in the ninth on a triple by Lopes.

"I had very good control of my breaking stuff," Messersmith explained, "and that's the secret to my pitching. If I can get my breaking pitches over, that makes my fastball that much better.

"I don't have a fastball like a Tom Seaver so the hitters can bury me if they're able to sit and wait for it."

Messersmith struck out five and walked four in posting the Dodgers' fourth club shutout of the season.

Nolan gets some support

Angel batters shock Ryan

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — Nolan Ryan, the California Angels' premier flamethrower, got a pleasant surprise Thursday night.

His teammates actually gave him some runs to work with.

However, Ryan must have thought it was going to be the same old story for most of the night.

Ryan, who had lost three games in a row as his batters failed to score any runs for him in 22 innings, was battling Detroit's Woodie Fryman on even terms until the Halos broke the game open with a three-run uprising in the sixth inning.

It was enough for Ryan to pick up a 3-0 victory over the Tigers on a neat five-hitter. The Angels moved to third place in the American League West standings, remaining two games behind the Chicago White Sox, entering tonight's remaining two games behind the Chicago White Sox, entering tonight's opener of a weekend series against the surprising Milwaukee Brewers.

But it wasn't a typical Ryan game. He struck only seven batters to increase his major league lead to 130. However, it was his second shutout of the season the first being his no-hitter and his 10th complete game, tops in baseball.

"I didn't throw as well tonight as I should," Ryan said. "I wasn't in the groove."

The lack of runs doesn't bother the righthander.

"I don't worry about the team's hitting," Ryan explains. "It's out of my control anyway since they took the bat out of my hand. I don't worry about wins and losses — just how well I throw."

Fryman, who is struggling with a 2-6 record, was just as effective until the sixth inning when Winston Llenas and Frank Robinson opened the rally with back-to-back singles.

Woodie looked like he would get out of trouble when he retired Bob Oliver and Ken Berry and intentionally walked Mike Epstein but Alan Gallagher drew a bases-loaded walk to force home the first run.

Light-hitting catcher Jeff Torborg then hit a two-run single to left to give Ryan all the support he needed.

ANGEL NOTES — Clyde Wright (3-7) will face Jerry Bell (5-6) tonight in the opener of the Milwaukee series. Bo Donaldson and The Heywoods will supply the pre-game entertainment on Teen Night. . .

Robinson played in his 2,476th game to move into 15th place ahead of Nap Lajoie on the all-time list. . .

Angel pinch-hitters have a collective .286 batting average. Last year's average was .190. . .

Willie Horton's home run off of relief ace Dave Sells Wednesday night was the first allowed by Sells in 37 innings of major league pitching. . .

No players were ejected Thursday night to break the string in the Tiger series. However, manager Billy Martin made sure the umpires knew he was around.

All-Star rosters announced for PV tilt at Chino

CHINO — Charter Oak and Royal Oak high schools each placed three of their baseball players on the Pomona Valley All-Star Baseball game's North team, it was announced today.

But even though Charter Oak did place three on the team, only two will be allowed to see action at the annual battle on the Chino High diamond June 22.

The Lancers' first baseman Mike Holland was chosen as one of the members of the North All-Stars, but the C.O. senior instead signed a major league contract with the Houston Astros after they drafted him in the ninth round of the summer draft.

Holland won't be the only player North coach Steve Gruwell will be losing to the major leagues. Outfielder Brad Kessler from Claremont recently signed a contract with Cincinnati after the Reds drafted him in the first round.

The other two Charter Oak players chosen to the North team were catcher Mark Unsoeld and pitcher Rick Hays — both also drafted by the majors.

The three Royal Oak players picked to compete in the June 22nd All-Stars game were catcher Roger Steinke, and third baseman Chris Barbone and Greg Underwood. Underwood can also pitch for the North stars.

With two spots now open after the signings, two of their alternates have a chance to fill the vacancies.

The alternates are Keith Jackson of Webb, Ralph Beltran of Bonita, and Larry Brown of Pomona.

This is the first year the All-Star game has included all the Pomona Valley schools.

In the previous two years, the classic was called the San Bernardino County All-Star game — including only the schools in the San Bernardino County.

This year's game is again sponsored by the Chino High School Lettermen's Club.

The annual battle, which is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., will see every player on each team in action, since the rules state that every player must make an appearance in the game.

PCAA accepts Cal Fullerton

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — Idaho and Cal State Fullerton are coming into the Pacific Coast Athletic Association effective July 1, 1974.

Their membership applications were approved at the PCAA's spring council meeting here Thursday—subject to termination of their present conference memberships and their ability to meet all provisions of the PCAA constitution and by-laws.

However, the terminations are expected to be mere formalities.

Thursday's action will give the PCAA seven schools again.

UC Santa Barbara and Cal State Los Angeles must leave the conference June 30, 1974, because they cannot meet its requirements for scholarships in football and basketball.

Idaho and Fullerton will join Cal State Long Beach, Pacific, San Diego State, Fresno State and San Jose State in the PCAA.

Belmont record for Secretariat?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretariat, who smashed the Churchill Downs track record in winning the Kentucky Derby and may have done so at Pimlico in winning the Preakness, was poised today to shatter the track standard at Belmont Park if that's what it takes to win the Belmont Stakes and sweep the Triple Crown.

"If the track is fast, the pace is right and he has to do it to win, I think he can break the record," trainer Lucien Laurin said.

At Churchill Downs Secretariat, calling upon all his muscle and might with a tremendous stretch run, completed the 1 ¼ miles in 1:59 2-5, shattering the two minute record set by Northern Dancer in 1964.

At Pimlico the issue was not as clean-cut. Secretaria was timed in 1:55 for the 1 3-16 miles by the automatic electric timer but private clockers timed him in 1:53 2-5, threefifths of a second faster than Canonero's record of 1:54 set two years ago. The track clocker caught Secretariat in 1:54 2-5 and that now stands as the official time. The colt won without Jockey Ron Turcotte ever hitting him with the whip.

The possibility of a record in Saturday's Belmont Stakes arose when trainer Frank "Pancho" Martin decided to enter the speedy Knightly Dawn as well as Sham, his colt that was second in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

Martin has not lost faith in Sham.

"I am just as confident now as I was before the Derby that Sham can beat Secretariat," he insisted.

"There was no speed in the race and that's why I put Knightly Dawn in—to get a fast pace. I still might change my mind and take Knightly Dawn out. This is a last minute decision business," he said.

Pvt. Smiles, My Gallant and Twice A Prince complete the field for the 1 ½ mile Belmont Stakes and the mark they are shootting at is 2:26 3-5 set by Gallant Man in 1957. Stage Door Johnny, the 1968 Belmont winner, came closest to the mark with a 2:37 1-5 clocking.

Laurin is well aware of Martin's plan to use Knightly Dawn as a "rabbit" and feels Secretariat may profit more by it than Sham.

"You don't think I am going to fall into that trap, do your" he asked. "Secretariat can be rated. He has been rated. You just leave him alone. He can gallop behind the field for three-quarters of a mile as long as you don't pick him up. Ronnie (Turcotte) knows this horse and he's a hell of a horse, that's all I can say. He'll break the record if he has to," the trainer added again.

That Secretariat could be beaten seems to be beyond Laurin's understanding.

"Everybody makes such a fuss over this horse. If he gets beat I'll be like a groundhog, crawl into a hole someplace and hide," he said.

The Belmont record was set through the use of a "rabbit" and at the expense of Bold Ruler, the sire of Secretariat.

Trainer Johnny Narud entered Bold Nero as well as Gallant Man. Bold Nero forced Bold Ruler to run a mile in 1:35 3-5. Then Gallant Man challenged and had no trouble taking the lead from the legweary leaders and pulling away to an eight-length victory.

None of the starters ever have raced 1½ miles.

Laurin has no doubt that Secretariat can handle the distance and points to the Preakness as evidence that Secretariat apparently can run all day.

But the other trainers are not quite that sure.

"This is a different race," said Johnny Campo who has the longest priced horse in the field at 50 to 1 in Twice A Prince.

"If Secretariat is a real mile and a half horse, he'll win. No doubt about that. If he isn't, I have just as good a chance to win as anybody. My horse has the breeding to go the distance," he said.

ARMANDO MUNIZ stopped Thurman Durden at 2:29 of the second round Thursday night at Olympic auditorium in Los Angeles. The win earned Muniz a July bout with the highly-ranked Ernie "Indian Red" Lopez.

ONTARIO — Registration for the Ontario Pop Warner Football Association will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday at the Ontario YMCA, 215 W. C St. Additional sign-ups will be held at the same time and location on July 7.

Boys, ages 8-13, are eligible to play on the junior pee wee, pee wee and midget programs. There is a $12 fee.

SAL grid outlook

Rawls will try to keep the other coaches in the league guessing next year.

"We're indoctrinating a new offense during the spring," Rawls explained. "And we'll be changing our defense from an even-man line to an odd-man line."

The Cowboys boasted 36 turnouts for the spring, with 14 of those returning from last year's varsity unit. Out of those 14 comes quarterback Jerry Belmudes, running back Don Cossey and All-Valley lineman Randy Rizo.

"I see us in the upper division for the first time in a while next year," forecasted the second-year Chino grid coach. "the league should be more balanced than it has been in the last few years."

Holycross' outlook in the spring is a hesitant optimism.

"We look pretty good — I think," he said. "Right now, we're just working on the pass offense and the fundamentals."

The Highlanders lost some of their key personnel in the offensive backfield, but the vacancies have been filled by equally talented players.

Jim Christensen will fill in for Mike Scharbrough at quarterback, while Cory Chapman will try to equal his brother Rocky's performance at the running back position.

But it's the defense Holycross is depending upon next year.

"We're capable of winning all of it next year," he warned. "We have an awfully tough defense, which will be much more experienced, and much quicker and faster."

The three first-year coaches next fall will be Ron Smedley of Damien, Jack Simpson of Montclair and Lawson Bush of Garey.

Smedley, like Rawls, is planning to make a few changes in hopes of improving last year's season.

"The kids are enthusiastic," he noted. "Right now, we're just picking personnel. Some of the kids who played last year will be playing in new positions, and some of them who started last year might not even start next year.

"I'll be putting together a new offense and a different defense," he added.

Larry Pekarcik will be returning to the quarterback spot next year, but he will be seriously challenged at that spot by Dean Sickels.

"Larry's a good throwing quarterback and Dean's a good running quarterback," explained Smedley.

The Damien head coach sees Claremont, Upland, Pomona and Chino as the teams to beat next year, but also warns, "We'll be tough."

Seventy players turned out for spring training at Montclair High, where Simpson is also planning to make a few changes in his offense and defense.

"It'll depend on our offensive line, which is very green," noted Simpson. "Our defense will be fairly strong, using the four-deep defensive backs instead of the three-deep and the monster man which has been used in the past."

Out of the 70 turnouts, only nine of them are returning from last year. But two of the nine were two of the top running backs in the league last year in Filbert Gonzales and John Surby.

Simpson indicated that he will take advantage of the "unlimited spring" which goes into effect this year.

"We'll be working with the weights and competing in the passing league up at Chaffey College this summer," he said.

Bush will also be taking advantage of the unlimited spring as he tries to develop his Vikings into contenders next year.

"We have a lot of young kids out this spring," he explained. "But I expect to be a contender next year."

Garey had a turnout of 50 players, none of whom are coming back from last year.

Scott Roque will fill in the quarterback spot for the Vikings next year, while Ron Rodriguez and Greg Johnson highlight the returning lettermen roster.

"I hope we'll surprise a lot of people," wished Bush. "I'm optimistic."

Girls' softball, T-Ball sign-ups set Saturday

POMONA — Registration for the local youth "T"-Ball baseball program and girls softball will be held Saturday at five locations. The activities are sponsored by the Pomona Park and Recreation Departments.

Leagues are being formed at each of the five areas. Sign-ups will be held between 9 a.m. and 12 noon at Simons, Emerson, Fremont, and Marshall Junior Highs as well as Westmont Park. There is a registration fee of three dollars that includes the cost of players medical and a T-shirt uniform.

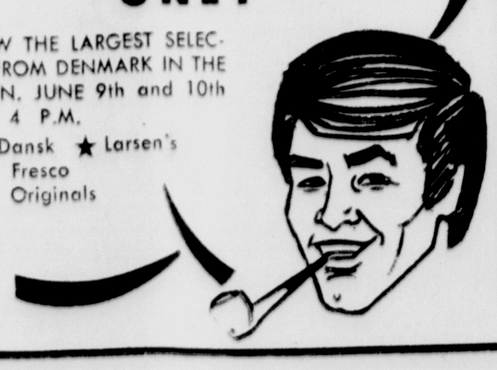

The "T"-Ball leagues are for youths between the ages of seven and nine years. It is open to those who will turn seven prior to August 1, 1973, but not ten before the same date. This is the first year the Pomona Department has conducted the program.

The girls softball leagues, beginning their third year, are expanding from two locations to five because of the large interest. Girls who will be nine prior to August 1st but not 13 are eligible.

Parents are asked to attend the registration and present proof of child's age. All youngsters who sign up will be placed on teams. There are no cuts and everyone plays.

Volunteer coaches and officials are needed for the program. Interested persons should attend the registration or call the Park and Recreation Office at 620-2321.

Ron Riley slated for clinic

POMONA — Ron Riley, former USC star and now a member of the NBA Kansas City-Omaha Kings, will be one of the instructors in the First Annual Summer Youth Basketball Clinic in Pomona June 25 through 29.

Riley will join a staff consiting of Mike Wells of Garey High, Ed Taylor of Pomona High and Curtis Donaidson of Fremont Junior High. The clinic will be held at Garey from noon to 4:30 p.m. daily for five days beginning June 25.

Enrollment will be limited to 60 boys, ages 8-16. Cost will be $2 per person. Signups should be completed by June 21. Full information may be obtained by calling 622-8005.

Purpose of the clinic as announced by director Jesse Henderson is to enable boys who could not afford to pay a fee of $100 or more such as is commonly charged for such clinics to enroll and participate.

"It also is designed to alleviate some of the youth delinquency problems in the area," said Henderson. Henderson is Program Coordinator for the Neighborhood Service Center which is involved in tutoring, youth counciling, and job placement.

Yellowtail fishing explodes off Southern California coast

SAN DIEGO — Yellowtail fishing exploded in the best numbers in over a dozen years this week as anglers from Fisherman's Landing, Pt. Loma Sportfishing and H&M Landing posted daily scores over the 2000-fish mark. Yellows were taken at the Coronado Islands and scattered kelp paddies in the area.

Most of the yellows were taken on live squid with fewer numbers caught on jigs and anchovies. The New Lo An out of Pt. Loma Sportfishing topped the action with an incredible one-day score of 344 yellowtail for 51 passengers. The Holiday brought back 266 yellows for 48 fishermen and the 'El Dorado' caught 236 yellows for 44 anglers.

At Fisherman's Landing the Cape Polaris returned with 208 yellows for 43 anglers on Wednesday, then sacked 151 for 51 anglers on Thursday. Other two day scores at Fisherman's included the Prowler with 97 for 29 and 233 for 31; Pacific Queen with 176 for 18 and 187 for 37; and Searcher with 153 for 21 and 108 for 14.

The total dock totals for the three landings, which are hosting the running of the 27th Annual San Diego Yellowtail Derby, were 2567 yellows for 517 anglers and 2050 for 422 anglers.

The "red hot" yellowtail fishing is being called the best since 1959, the all-time record for sportfishing with over 96,000 yellowtail logged that season. Last week's scores at the derby landings showed over 6000 fish taken in that week alone!

The increased fish counts should continued at a good pace as weather and water conditions at the Coronado Islands have been ideal. The good show of yellowtail should provide lots of sizzling action for the next special event of the Yellowtail Derby, a "Lucky Anglers Day" on Thursday, June.

Drag boat races set June 16, 17

LONG BEACH — The last time the nation's fastest drag boats assembled at Long Beach Marine Stadium, no less than seven world records were set. The same can be expected June 16-17 when the National Drag Boat Assn. stages the Pacific Challenge drag boat races.

"Boats are getting faster and more sophisticated and drivers more daring," said race director Ralph Roberts. "That means new records every time we hold a race."

Even the water skiers get into the act. Gordon Eppling of Long Beach broke the barefoot record during the March races with an 83.28 mph clocking, then zipped 91.27 mph at Lake Ming, Bakersfield, but was unable to back up the time due to an eye injury. There will be six barefoot and four speed skiers in action during the Saturday portion of the Pacific Challenge races and Eppling appears to be a threat to improve his own record.

Joe Babel, Castro Valley, is the hotest driver among the hydro pilots. He won the California Championships at Long Beach in Vern Kinman's Sanger No. 61 and then recorded a new world's record for unblown fuel hydros at Lake Ming at 162.45 mph.

Dale Kirkham, Citrus Heights, shattered the unblown fuel flatbottom mark at Lake Ming at 137.19 mph in War Eagle, a new Hondo tunnel-flatbottom.

"We are going to put in an all-aluminum Donavan Chrysler engine," said Kirkham after his record-shattering run, "and I fully expect to be hitting over 150 miles an hour real soon."

Great fishing offered off south Orange coast

DANA POINT, Calif. — Some of the best fishing in years is now being offered off the southern Orange County coast, reports Don Hansen at Dana Wharf Sportfishing. Yellowtail moved into local waters in big numbers last week, and hit live bait and jigs fished under the floating kelp paddies adrift off Dana Point.

Hansen noted that anglers from Dana Wharf hit good numbers of yellows most days last week and he expects the action to remain good as weather and water conditions are ideal. Top day last week was Thursday, when 202 yellowtail, 266 bonito and 231 bass topped the fish counts made by 139 anglers. Weekend counts were similar, with 113 legal-sized barracuda also included on Saturday.

Hansen says Catalina Island remains fair to good for bass and bonito fishing, along with some yellowtail, and the Sea Horse is set to make daily runs if passenger loads warrant. Advance reservations are a must for this trip . . . at (714) 831-1850.

Largest fish of the week at Dana Wharf was a 22-lb. yellowtail taken off San Onofre by John Fleming of San Clemente.

Hansen says the daily schedule at the landing includes the Catalina Island run at 12:30 a.m.; all-day at 6 a.m.; half-day at 6:30 a.m., 10 a.m. and 12 noon; and Twilight Special at 5:30 p.m.

Grunion provide action

LONG BEACH — Grunion grabbers are back in action along Southern California beaches following the opening of the season June 1 after a two-month no-fishing period which protects the grunion during the peak of their spawning season.

The small silvery fish which invade beaches from Baja California to Morro Bay at periodic intervals from early March through the first few days in August cooperated by staging runs the nights of June 2, 3, 4 and 5.

The spawning runs are related to the tide cycles, and the next invasions of beaches are scheduled for the nights of June 17, 18, 19 and 20.

Although a description of grunion fishing may sound suspiciously like a snipe hunt, grunion runs attract thousands of people to the beaches because the fish are a tasty addition to any menu and because all it takes to catch them is your bare hands and a fishing license.

The regulations for grunion fishing are quite simple. No tools, implements or fishing gear can be used. You have to catch them with your bare hands. All persons over 16 must have a fishing license.

Although there is no limit on the number you can catch, the Department of Fish and Game points out that it is illegal to take more than you can use.

Grunion runs genrally occur from one to three hours after a high tide, but only on three or four nights after a full or new moon. The second and third nights of each cycle usually are the best.

In California some of the best grunion runs occur at Coronado Strand, Mission Beach, La Jolla, Del Mar, Doheny Beach, Corona del Mar, Newport Beach, Huntington Beach, Belmont, Long Beach, Cabrillo, Hermosa, Venice, Santa Monica, Malibu, Santa Barbara, Pismo Beach and the beaches between Morro Bay and Caucos.

Dates and times

Predicted peaks for grunion runs for the rest of this summer are: June 17, 10:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.; June 18, 11:03 p.m. to 1:03 a.m.; June 19, 11:38 p.m. to 1:38 a.m.; June 20, 12:23 a.m. to 2:23 a.m.; July 17, 10:50 p.m. to 12:50 a.m.; July 18, 11:25 p.m. to 1:25 a.m.; July 19, 12:06 a.m. to 2:06 a.m.; July 20, 12:58 a.m. to 2:58 a.m.; July 31, 11:09 p.m. to 1:09 a.m.; August 1, 11:54 p.m. to 1:54 a.m. August 2, 12:45 a.m. to 2:45 a.m.; August 3, 1:49 a.m. to 3:49 a.m.

L. V. Legion uses rally for 5-3 win

By BRETT DODY
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — La Verne American Legion Post 330 scored four runs in the sixth inning to take a 5-3 victory over Charter Oak Connie Mack Thursday afternoon at La Verne College.

It was a combined La Verne hitting attack with Greg Thompson and Al Acosta collecting two hits for the day. Trailing, 3-1, La Verne got things rolling in the sixth when Charter Oak shortstop Steve Briscol bobbled a ball, allowing Mark Bumstead to beat out an infield single.

Charter Oak pitcher Jerry Morgan then gave up a walk to La Verne's Thompson and a costly double to Steve Hines, which drove in two runs. Mark Willman then singled to put runners at the corners with only one out.

Al Acosta's single to left scored Hines and advanced Willman to second. Morgan then got La Verne's Brian Ranney out on strikes before allowing a double to Richard Ortega, scoring Willman. The inning ended when Al Acosta was tagged out at the plate attenpting to score on a wild pitch.

Charter Oak's runs came early when Steve Carnahan opened the game by reaching first on an error. Jim Harwood's double scored Carnahan, and was followed two batters later with Doug Holt's RBI double that scored Harwood.

Charter Oak's Scott O'Connel delivered a solo homer in the fifth inning for his team's final tally of the day. Brian Ranney picked up the win for La Verne making his record 3-1 for the season.

Pomonans slam Rialto in Legion ball

RIALTO — Pomona Post 30 pounded out 17 hits and scored 16 runs Thursday and rolled to an easy 16-5 win over Rialto Post 422 in American Legion ball at Rialto.

The Pomonans scored nine runs in the first three innings and the score was 10-0 before Rialto ever crossed the plate.

Wil Lewallen had four hits in four at-bats. Conde Rael had a double and drove in three runs. Greg Ballard homered to lead off the sixth inning and also had a single.

Roger Slayton had three hits. Les Christensen had a triple, single and batted in two runs.

Cleve Porter hurled the first five innings and picked up the victory. The win brought the Post 30 record to 12-2. The weekend schedule calls for a 2 p.m. game Saturday at Ralph Welch Park with Bob Chaulk slated to pitch against West Covina. The same teams clash Sunday at 10 a.m. at MSAC with Keith Hartley on the mound.

Holland signs Houston pact

COVINA — Mike Holland, Charter Oak first baseman, signed a contract Thursday with the Houston Astros.

Holland, who was drafted in the ninth round, will report to the Astros' farm club in the Applachian League June 15. Terms of his contract were not announced, but were described as "very satisfactory."

He is one of four players drafted from the Charter Oak team. Rick Hays was taken by Atlanta, Andy Mason by the Texas Rangers, and Mark Unsoeld by Cincinnati.

Holland batted .390 for Charter Oak, hit five home runs and battled in 22 runs. He was a first-team All-Montview League selection.

To have your league standings printed in the P-B, just submit them to the sports department by 1 p.m. Thursday. All leagues in the P-B circulation area are invited to send in their results. Because of the space requirements, the P-B won't print minor divisions of Little Leagues.

An interesting four-channel system for $397

It used to be that not everyone who was interested in 4-channel sound could afford a four-channel system. Pioneer and Pacific Stereo are working hard to overcome that. This total system costs $397 and that's not much more than you should pay for the receiver alone. The $379.95 Pioneer QX-4000 AM/FM receiver has built-in decoders for SQ discs and other popular matrixing systems, and its four amplifier sections put out a total of 40 RMS watts. The QX-4000 can also accommodate a discrete 4-channel tape deck. Separate bass, treble and balance controls adjust each set of speakers you connect and there's a front-to-rear balance control as well.

The sturdy BSR 310 automatic record player is a fine value at $54.95, including the base, dust cover and a Shure M75CS magnetic cartridge. Its cueing lever makes it awfully hard to scratch a record.

The TransAudio 1008's are 2-way speaker systems with an eight-inch bass speaker. They normally sell for $79.90 a pair and you'll like their sound.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's five-year warranty

To purchase these separately you would pay:

Pioneer QX-4000	$379.95
BSR 310 with base, cover, Shure M95CS	54.95
TransAudio 1008's (four)	159.80

A $72 cartridge goes along with the Lenco L85

$234.50

Lenco's latest provides a couple of ingenious conveniences which fans of manual record players usually have to forego. The L85 features a spring loaded cueing device (damped in both directions) which will raise the arm and shut off the motor at the end of a record, and it can be set to lower the arm exactly at the beginning of the disc. There's a rumble-free belt drive system, and a damped suspension system that provides just about the best isolation from acoustic feedback we've seen. We usually sell the L85 with a base and dust cover for $234.50; right now we'll throw in a Stanton 681EE, one of the most respected elliptical cartridges around and one of the few that isn't discounted from its $72 price.

Our lowest price ever on the TEAC 350

Thanks to a Dolby noise reduction system and the capacity for chromium dioxide tapes, the TEAC 350 can produce very high quality, noisefree recordings, and the convenient layout of the controls makes it easy to do so. Until now, the 350 was fair traded at $289.50,but this is a factory authorized sale.

$249.50

JBL 88's reduced by $30

You'll get the "up-front" JBL sound from this two-way speaker system, and save 15% too. Each L-88 contains a twelve-inch low frequency speaker for clear strong bass and a two-inch direct radiator for extended and widely dispersed highs. The walnut cabinet has the geometric grille JBL calls Nova, and while our supply lasts you can pick up a pair for $168 each instead of the original $198.

$168

A $142 saving on a popular Sansui receiver

$238

The Sansui 2000X AM/FM stereo receiver has refinements not usually found in medium priced components, and more power too. The amplifier section delivers 78 watts (RMS) all the way across the audio band; convenience features include both high and low filters and Sansui's own multiplex noise canceller for perfectly noisefree FM stereo listening. The 2000X sold for $379.95 with the walnut case, and a chance to save $142 shouldn't be missed.

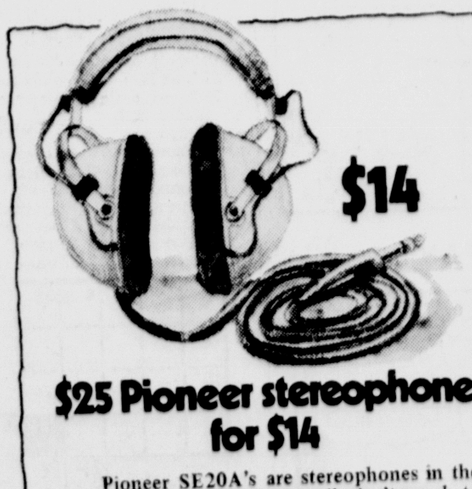

SAVE $142

Our pre-devaluation inventory is nearly gone

And what that means to you is that the longer you put off buying your new stereo gear, the more you'll probably have to pay for it. If it's lack of ready cash that's holding you back, you might do well to use our 90-day interest free account. In most cases we can arrange credit on the spot.

$25 Pioneer stereophones for $14

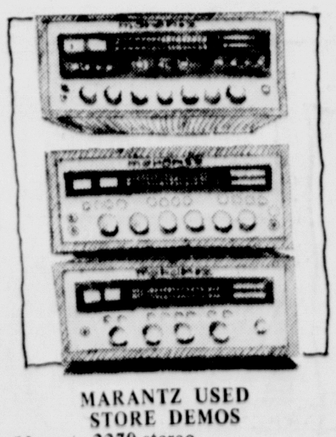

$14

Pioneer SE20A's are stereophones in the classic design and there really isn't much to say about them except that they sound very, very good. That and the $11 saving should be reason enough to get yourself a pair.
